Defense Alienists Describe Epileptic 'Confused States'

Two prominent Columbus psychiatrists testified Friday in the first-degree murder trial of Mary Agnes Ruff that she probably was in an epileptic "state of confusion" the morning her husband was fatally shot in their home near South Bloomfield.

Both alienists said the 34-year-old farm-wife told them she "didn't know" whether she fired the shots which killed her husband, Daniel Ruff Jr., as he lay in bed Jan. 15.

Testimony of the specialists, Dr.

Milton Parker and Dr. George Harding, took all of the afternoon session after direct examination of Mrs. Ruff had ended at noon recess. Cross-examination of the defendant is expected to begin at 9:30 a. m. Monday when the trial goes into its third week.

Attorneys estimated the case would go to the jury late next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Important parts of testimony given Friday by Parker and Harding differed from the opinions expressed on the witness stand earlier in the trial by two court-appointed alienists.

one to determine Mrs. Ruff's "sanity"—is one seeking to establish the form or forms of epilepsy involved in the defendant's case. In some, the mental confusion is relatively brief and the afflicted person is seized by convulsions or held in motionless state. In at least one other form—"psychomotor" attacks—the person may move from place to place and appear outwardly normal for a period of hours or longer.

Dr. Harding, the last witness called Friday afternoon, examined Mrs. Ruff in Pickaway County jail a short time before the trial began.

HE SAID THAT on the basis of all the information given and made available to him, he believes Mrs. Ruff was in a "confused state" at the time of the shooting.

Describing the accused woman as "definitely an epileptic," Parker said his knowledge of the case indicated Mrs. Ruff on the morning of the shooting "acted in an irresponsible, trance-like" manner.

Both specialists described at length the various forms epilepsy can take and how persons suffering from one type of the affliction can appear normal while actually being in a temporary daze, which has been known to last for days.

Such a passing state, they explained, constitutes a class of "involuntary" or "transient psychosis," inasmuch as the afflicted person is capable of performing many coordinated actions without being aware of what he is doing.

Some persons, it was explained, have no recollection of what transpired during such "confused states" when the attack finally ends. Others have only a vague memory as to where they were and what they did during the course of the attack.

Thus, it appeared from the testimony, the argument—rather than

Faculty Asking Delay In Hearing

COLUMBUS (AP)—An indefinite delay in final action in the case of Dr. Byron Darling, suspended Ohio State University physics professor, has been requested by the OSU chapter of American Association of University Professors.

The chapter has 400 members, one-fifth of the faculty. The group asked no action be taken "until all pertinent facts are available to the president, the board of trustees and the faculty."

The trustees meet Monday to discuss President Howard L. Bevis' recommendation that Darling be dismissed for refusing to answer House Un-American Activities committee questions on Communism.

6 Ohio Solons To See A-Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six Ohio congressmen are scheduled to attend A-bomb tests to be conducted by the Atomic Energy Commission in the Nevada desert.

Reps. Polk (D), Bow (R) and McGregor (R) are to leave here Thursday morning for a test the following Saturday. Reps. Reams (Ind) and Sherer (R) are on the joint congressional Atomic Energy Committee's roster for a May 2 test. Rep. Hess (R) is slated to witness a blast May 21.

Weeks Forced To Withdraw Astin Firing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Allen V. Astin remains temporarily director of the National Bureau of Standards, with assurances of continued government employment and regard for his professional ability and integrity.

Astin's resignation, forced by Secretary of Commerce Weeks in a row over the bureau's adverse report on a powder to rejuvenate batteries, was to have become effective today.

But Friday night Weeks reversed himself and announced that:

1. Astin will remain as director for several months while a special scientific committee evaluates "the present functions and operations of the Bureau of Standards in relation to present national needs."

2. "No question is involved of Dr. Astin's permanent retention" as bureau director, but he will be offered a post in his present grade "where his professional skill and abilities may be utilized."

Until Weeks acted—on the advice, he said, of the bureau's Visiting Committee of Scientists—a storm of protest over Astin's dismissal had been building up in scientific circles and in Congress.

There were reports from within the bureau that several hundred employees were ready to resign. The bureau, the government's main testing agency, handles many top secret defense projects.

Central, North Ohio Gets Snow

COLUMBUS (AP)—Snow decorated spring's green trees with a wintery lace of white today throughout most of Northern and Central Ohio, but the weather bureau said the snow would not stick to the roads.

Three to six inches of snow were forecast, with the heaviest fall predicted for the north. Akron had an inch on the grass and rooftops by morning. In Columbus, snow started falling after midnight and then was mixed with rain.

Prisoner Exchange Timetable Set Up

Monday To See Historic Trade Of Disabled Soldiers In Korea

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—UN and Communist staff officers today agreed tentatively on a time schedule for Monday's historic exchange of disabled prisoners of the Korean War.

And they completed arrangements for a meeting of liaison officers Sunday to set a date for resuming the suspended full scale Korean armistice talks.

The tentative schedule calls for the first exchange of sick and wounded prisoners at 9 a. m. Monday (7 p. m. Sunday, EST).

All five delegates of the UN's main truce team were in Korea today. They could be in Panmunjom, the weathered truce talk village, in a matter of hours when the fast-breaking developments of the last couple weeks add up to a call to re-open the stalled talks.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, head of the UN delegation, and Air Force Brig. Gen. Edgar Glenn, another member, flew here from Japan today.

HARRISON came to observe the exchange of sick and wounded POWs, set to begin in Panmunjom Monday, and to be briefed on latest developments.

Harrison said he has no objection to talking truce with the Reds in Panmunjom even while an exchange of disabled prisoners goes on only a few yards from the conference hut. He would make no predictions. "I just play it from day to day," he said.

Already at this advance truce headquarters of the UN Command is a third team member, Rear Adm. John C. Daniel.

He will head the liaison group that will meet the Communists at Panmunjom at 11 a. m. Sunday (9 p. m. Saturday, EST) and discuss re-opening the full scale talks.

The two other truce delegates are at Army posts in Korea but only a few minutes by small plane from the armistice site.

The exchange timetable for Monday offered by Red staff officers today would start Operation Little Switch at 9 a. m. Monday (7 p. m. Sunday, EST).

Col. Douglas M. Cairns, UN staff officer, said the proposed terms "appeared reasonable," but told the Reds, "We would like to make a thorough study of them before definitely agreeing."

THE REDS proposed that they deliver captured Allied troops to the Panmunjom exchange point in groups of 25 at 9 a. m., 9:30 a. m., 2 p. m., and 2:30 p. m. The Reds have said they will release 600 Allied prisoners, including 150 Americans and other non-Korean nationals, at the rate of 100 a day.

The Communists asked the ALlies to deliver captured Reds in four groups of 25 each between 9 and 9:30 a. m.; four groups between 10 and 10:30 a. m.; four between 11 and 11:30 a. m.; four between 2 and 2:30 p. m., and four between 3 and 3:30 p. m. The UN is releasing 5,800 Communists, including 700 Chinese, at 500 a day.

The main business for the liaison officers meeting Sunday will be setting a date for the formal talks.

But there is a chance the Reds might give some indication of their feelings toward the UN proposal on how to settle the issue of 5,000 Communist prisoners who say they will resist repatriation to Communist soil.

Communist China's Premier Chou En-lai late last month proposed immediate exchange of those prisoners willing to return home with the others turned over to a neutral country.

The UN has suggested Switzerland as the neutral country. The UN proposal given the Reds Thursday said the prisoners in dispute should be kept in Korea under custody of the neutral state.

The UN plan was outlined in a letter Harrison sent to Lt. Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate, accepting the Red request that full armistice talks be resumed.

Harrison coupled his proposal with a warning to the Communists that unless the meetings indicated agreement "within a reasonable time" the UN would again suspend the talks.

Wilson Earned $581,000 In '52

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson earned $581,000 in salary and bonuses during his last year as president of General Motors Corp.

Wilson and 65 other top executives and directors of the huge concern earned a total of $11,878,712 in salaries and bonuses during 1952. These figures were disclosed in the notice of the corporation's annual meeting of stockholders scheduled for May 22. Wilson now earns $22,500 a year as a member of President Eisenhower's Cabinet.

Oxford Native Gets Top Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—John L. Farley, 61, a native of Oxford, O., Friday was appointed director of the Fish and Wildlife Service by Secretary of the interior McKay. Farley now lives in Seattle.

Dust, Ice, Fire Hit Western States After Spring Storm

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—A spring storm sweeping out of Canada today scattered towering dust clouds, ice and fire through six western states.

Forest fires in New Mexico and Arizona crackled under lashing winds. Gritty clouds of reddish dust as high as 20,000 feet blanketed western skies from Southern Colorado and Eastern Arizona into Oklahoma and Texas.

Motorists skidded on icy Colorado roads and 14 cars and trucks piled up in a blinding New Mexico sand storm. One person was killed and at least 10 injured in scattered accidents.

Oklahoma farmers watched their crops as the mercury skidded to below freezing.

Colorado and Wyoming ranchers were told to get livestock under cover as seven inches of snow from the north piled up at Big Piney, Wyo.

Freezing rains and fog hit Oklahoma and Texas.

MORE THAN 1,000 men were on the firelines in Southern New Mexico attempting to control flames which swept from a sawmill spark through 13,440 acres of virgin pine in the Lincoln National Forest. Loss is estimated at $804,000.

Forest rangers said hundreds of small spot fires were rushing ahead of the lines on winds up to 60 miles an hour Friday night. The Weather Bureau forecast continued winds today up to 50 miles an hour.

In the Coronado National Forest of Eastern Arizona, 225 men fought what officers termed a man-made blaze which today had destroyed about 2,000 acres.

Winds 35 to 45 miles an hour carried the Arizona fire rapidly through dry fir and pine to within three miles of some cabins.

The district Weather Bureau in Albuquerque said the dust blanket Friday swirled over Alamosa, Colo., Eastern Arizona, all of New Mexico, and far into Texas and Oklahoma.

New Mexico state police blamed the dust for the death Friday of Mrs. Beatrice Marie Brooks, 29, of Pacoima, Calif. The car in which she was riding was one of 14 vehicles which piled up on a sand-swept quarter of a mile of U. S. 66 near Grants, N. M.

HER HUSBAND, Paul, and daughter, Patsy, 10, and a passenger, Mrs. Paul de Moss, 3, of Springfield, Ohio, were reported in fair condition in an Albuquerque hospital.

Icy roads in Colorado caused a car carrying an elderly Denver couple to overturn near Watkins, Colo. They were seriously injured. Five were hospitalized when a Denver city bus skidded into another bus.

Editors Told Of Gains Made In News Suppression Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Important gains in their struggle against news suppression were reported today to the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

But James S. Pope, chairman of ASNE's Freedom of Information Committee, advised 400 editors in their annual meeting here to adopt an attitude of "watchful waiting and suspended judgment" on information policies of the Eisenhower administration.

In some moves the Republicans have seemed "fearful of full public knowledge," Pope, executive editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, said. He expressed hope these gestures arose merely "from inexperience, from initial caution, from misunderstandings."

"We have been led to believe," he added, that an executive order issued in September, 1951, by former President Truman authorizing civilian agencies to set up tight security classifications of information "will be withdrawn or substantially modified."

IT IS "QUITE likely" also, he predicted, that Congress will enact a law guaranteeing the public and press access to government records which do not involve national security. Such a law presumably would, in addition, strengthen the hand of congressional committees in obtaining executive records.

Paul Block Jr., co-publisher of the Toledo Blade and chairman of the society's subcommittee on atomic information, was less optimistic than Pope. Some qualified observers, he said, have warned that "harmful security may get a new lease on life" under the new administration. He added:

"The curtain around the United States atomic energy program is obstructing scientific progress in the development of uses of the new force."

"There have been numerous complaints that civil defense authorities have not been told enough about atomic warfare to defend the public against it."

Despite the cautious prediction by Pope that President Eisenhower may withdraw or relax the Truman security order, President Eisenhower himself has said little to indicate he will do so. He told a recent news conference he has not decided what to do, but invited newspapers to report any instances of abuse.

ATTY. GEN. Brownell yesterday invited the society to send a committee to discuss with him methods of protecting military data while still maintaining "American standards of freedom of information."

Pope ticked off the news performances of other Cabinet officers. Secretary of State Dulles, he said, "shows evidence of giving more than lip service" to freedom of information; Secretary of Agriculture Benson's press relations have been "somewhat strained"; the Pentagon "remains somewhat of an enigma"; and Secretary of Defense Wilson has proposed new rules to "button up" what he considers too much talk.

THE Eisenhower plan—end the cold war, disarm the world and invest the savings in combatting what was handed directly to the Kremlin.

The State Department said a text of the speech was submitted to the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow Thursday night. American envoys in some 70 foreign capitals acted similarly.

Symington told the editors' society Friday that, even if the defense budget is not reduced, the U. S. will continue to grow "weaker every day in relative military strength against Russia."

He said he hopes the Eisenhower administration does not invite possible military disaster by adopting a "price-tag policy" on arms spending.

"SOMEDAY, and now by no means in the distant future," Symington said, "the Russians will have that number of bombs they consider enough. They already have the

Ike Orders Yacht Placed In Mothballs

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower has ordered the presidential yacht Williamsburg out of service and into the "mothball fleet" because "the White House believes it is a symbol of needless luxury."

Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, used those words in announcing the decision today at the president's vacation headquarters.

Between now and June 30, when the Williamsburg will be stored away by the Navy, the yacht will be used twice weekly for Potomac River and Chesapeake Bay cruises for wounded war veterans, Hagerty said.

He added that the yacht, which was used frequently by former President Truman, will be taken out of presidential service May 31. The secretary estimated annual cost of operating the yacht at $600,000. A saving of that much won't be realized, however, because that figure includes the salaries of its crew of 123 officers and men who will be transferred to other duty.

Actual cost of operating the ship itself is estimated at about $75,000 a year.

The only time Eisenhower used the yacht was on March 26 when he met aboard with Premier Rene Mayer and other French government officials.

Woman Admits Shooting Mate

DETROIT (AP)—A 34-year-old woman taxicab driver today admitted shooting her husband to death four months ago and hiding his body in a shed.

Assistant Prosecutor Stanley Grankowski said Mrs. Elizabeth Culver Sembdner told police she shot her husband, Arthur Jr., 45, a welder, with a pistol Dec. 27 while he was choking her. The story came to light Friday when the woman's dog was found playing with a human skull on the front lawn.

Sen. Ferguson Demands Slash In U.S. Budget

Ike Administration Shows Signs Of Log In Western Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) called today for a $6 billion cut in arms and atomic spending, amid signs the Eisenhower administration may support a slower buildup of Western defense.

The proposal by Ferguson, chairman of the Senate armed service appropriations subcommittee, came in the face of an assertion by Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) that U. S. military strength is lagging further behind Russia's every day.

Attention centered on a speech Secretary of State Dulles will make tonight at 10 p. m., EST, before the American Society of Newspaper Editors. The speech will be broadcast and telecast nationally by ABC and rebroadcast at 11 p. m. by NBC.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), acting chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee before which Dulles appeared Friday, said the speech will discuss the rate of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization buildup.

SEN. GILLETTE (D-Iowa), who also heard Dulles' testimony, said he felt the secretary was considering a possible shift to "the long pull rather than a hurried, extraordinary buildup."

After his closed-door meeting with the committee, Dulles told newsmen in effect that President Eisenhower's peace proposals before the editors' society Thursday had put Russia on the spot.

If there is no prompt response from Russia, Dulles said, "in a great many respects it will be quite apparent it is necessary to move ahead on all fronts, East and West, to develop a strong position."

THE Eisenhower plan—end the cold war, disarm the world and invest the savings in combatting what was handed directly to the Kremlin.

The State Department said a text of the speech was submitted to the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow Thursday night. American envoys in some 70 foreign capitals acted similarly.

Symington told the editors' society Friday that, even if the defense budget is not reduced, the U. S. will continue to grow "weaker every day in relative military strength against Russia."

Columbus Rent Decontrol Snags

WASHINGTON (AP)—Efforts to speed decontrol of rents in Columbus, O., have run into a snag.

John McElroy, administrative assistant to Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), Friday said the city charter evidently requires a 30-day waiting period before City Council resolutions can become effective.

The Columbus City Council Monday voted to remove rent curbs from housing in that city.

McElroy said Robert Lauer, general counsel of the Office of Rent Stabilization told him the 30-day waiting period stipulated in city laws prevents the federal agency from acting quickly.

Smallpox Epidemic Plagues England

LONDON (AP)—A month-old smallpox epidemic in Northern England claimed its fifth victim today.

The outbreak is centered in the textile manufacturing areas of Yorkshire and Lancashire. Cases have been officially reported in at least six towns. The outbreak has set off a rush to vaccination centers across the north of England.

Ike To Continue Use Of Draft

WASHINGTON (AP)—Even if fighting ends in Korea, the Eisenhower administration says it will ask Congress to keep the draft law in force.

The law is due to expire in 1955, but Dr. John A. Hannah, assistant secretary of defense for manpower, said defense chiefs will ask that it be extended. He said Congress also would be asked to extend the draft of medical officers beyond the June 30, 1954, expiration date.

Troop Train Jumps Rails; One Killed

WEST UNION, W. Va. (AP)—Seven of 10 cars of a Nevada-bound Army troop train were derailed here last night in an accident which apparently caused no more than minor injuries to the soldiers.

The engineer was killed and the fireman injured. A spokesman for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad quoted the officer in charge of the troops as saying none of them was hurt seriously.

Soviet Pushes Her Plan For East Germany

At Same Time, Reds 'Plead' For Unified Setup For Nation

BONN, Germany (AP)—Western Allied officials say that despite the new Soviet campaign for a four-power conference to reunify Germany, the Russians are pushing as hard as ever for a fully bolshevized East Germany with its own powerful Red army.

The top East German Communist, Deputy Premier and Party Secretary General Walter Ulbricht, made big headlines in the Red press yesterday with his statement that Moscow wants to talk reunification with the United States, France and Britain.

Allied officials said today, however, that there is not the slightest sign in East Germany that the Russians expect an early agreement with the West on Germany or intend to relax their grip on the 18 million East Germans.

They said the Russians are acting as if long-range Soviet policy in Germany is unchanged—to nail down a Communist satellite regime in East Germany and thus keep Soviet power entrenched in Europe as far west as the Elbe River.

The state-directed rural revolution, the purging of anti-Communists from political and cultural groups, the terror campaign against the church, the expansion of the Communist "people's army"—all these are moving ahead in East Germany, these officials said.

And the Kremlin's propaganda organization still is pouring out "hate the West" broadcasts and newspaper stories to the East German population.

Officials manning the West's front-line diplomatic posts here said they have been watching closely for signs that the Russians are easing their rough policy in East Germany.

But the latest reports on conditions there, they continued, show that:

Military construction for both the Soviet occupation forces and the new East German army is being rushed. The young East German Communist army now exceeds 100,000 men and is growing. The Russians are reliably reported planning to enlarge this force to around 300,000 men.

Large and small farms are being herded into "production co-op operations," another name for the Soviet-type collective farm.

In the war against the church, the Communist government is reported planning to outlaw Protestant youth activities and to seize church welfare and cultural properties not being used for religious services.

Thomas Jefferson Grows in Esteem As Years Add Meaning to His Ideas

By H. D. CRAWFORD
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Thomas Jefferson was born on April 13, 1743. Every year hundreds of thousands of people who visit Washington's famous cherry blossoms along the Tidal Basin in early April see in the midst of these magnificent blossoms the white marble, Pantheon-like Jefferson Memorial commemorating the man who wrote the Declaration of Independence, who was our first secretary of state, and who, as third President, was the first to be inaugurated at Washington.

Every year the impact of Jefferson's ideas becomes more evident as we recognize them as pillars of our American system. This year the birth anniversary of the great statesman has special significance. He was born 210 years ago.

Just 150 years ago this April, President Jefferson's representatives in Paris purchased the Louisiana Territory. On Jefferson's 200th birthday, 10 years ago, President Franklin D. Roosevelt turned from the arduous affairs of World War II long enough to go to the Tidal Basin and dedicate the Jefferson Memorial.

WHEN PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT spoke of Jefferson a decade ago, America and its allies were fighting the tyranny of the German-Italian-Japanese Axis; today the free world is confronted by the tyranny of a Russian-sponsored Communist plot of world conquest. Roosevelt's words regarding Jefferson are as applicable today:

"Thomas Jefferson believed, as we believe, in man. He believed, as we believe, that men are capable of their own government, and that no king, no tyrant, no dictator can govern for them as wisely as they can govern for themselves."

President Roosevelt ended his dedicatory address by quoting words from Jefferson which he said "speak Jefferson's noblest and most urgent meaning," and he said he was proud to understand and share them: "I have sworn upon the altar of God eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind of man."

THE JEFFERSON MEMORIAL is fashioned architecturally after the Pantheon in Rome. Jefferson admired this design. He worked it into the dome he designed for the University of Virginia. He also used it in the design of his own some of Jefferson's ideas. Carved into the marble panels of the Memorial you find these words:

"No man shall be compelled to frequent or support any religious worship or ministry or shall otherwise suffer on account of his religious opinions or belief. But all men shall be free to profess, and by argument to maintain, their opinions in matters of religion..."

"I am not an advocate for frequent changes in laws and constitutions. But laws and institutions must go hand in hand with the progress of the human mind. As that becomes more developed, more enlightened, as new discoveries are made, new truths discovered and manners and opinions change, with the change of circumstances, institutions must advance also to keep pace with the times. We might as well require a man to wear still the coat which fitted him when a boy as civilized society to remain ever under the regimen of their barbarous ancestors."

THE HEROIC 19-foot bronze statue of Jefferson stands peacefully on its pedestal in the center of the memorial, facing across the Tidal Basin toward the White House. From the memorial's front entrance you can see the Lincoln National Capitol.

The white marble memorial, with its great fluted columns, nestles along the Tidal Basin flanked with flowering cherry trees. It is one of the most elegant and inspiring structures in Washington.

air lift and submarine lift necessary to deliver them." But Ferguson said he is convinced the $46½ billion military program proposed by former President Truman can be heavily slashed without reducing combat strength.

The Michigan senator said he believes secrecy surrounding the atomic program—for which Truman asked $2.7 billion in the fiscal year beginning July 1—has led to "great extravagance."

Ferguson said a $4 billion military cut, as proposed by Senate Republican Leader Taft of Ohio, will not be enough.

Taft predicted that Congress will cut military spending substantially. He said he agrees with the statement of John A. Hannah, assistant secretary of defense, that substantial cuts can be made "with out sacrificing strength."

Alienists Tell Of Confused Mental States

Ruff on the night of the slaying suffered an attack of epilepsy which took the form of "epileptic automatism"—an attack causing her to wander in a confused mental state for a period of undetermined duration.

During such an attack, the specialist explained, Mrs. Ruff would have been able to drive a car, turn lights on and off, answer questions and perform many other acts with little or no realization of what she was doing.

Persons in such a state, Harding said, act in a manner somewhat similar to those walking in their sleep.

"They are not unconscious," he said, "but neither are they conscious."

In a variation of epileptic attacks with motion, the specialist added, the person may become "violent and destructive."

Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer, on cross-examination, questioned the doctor closely as to his procedure in making his examination and the basis found for his conclusions.

Both alienists called by the defense made reference to use of a tracing obtained from "brain wave" laboratory equipment. Such equipment, by measuring electrical impulses given off by the human brain, is widely used to detect epilepsy and other afflictions of like classification.

In a technical discussion of his "brain wave" findings with the Prosecutor, Harding gave the impression that tests given Mrs. Ruff clearly indicated a disorder involving the brain but could not show conclusively the basic reason for her condition.

That, he agreed with Ammer, could only be determined by more extensive examination and further tests.

HARDING ALSO agreed that if "vital facts" were given to one examining alienist and withheld from another, the doctors would likely disagree in their diagnosis.

A lengthy discussion centered on whether Dr. J. A. Whieldon, one of the two court-appointed alienists who testified earlier, had been given the same information as Harding received on Mrs. Ruff's case.

Harding pointed out it is possible the defendant felt more at ease during his own examination, stressing at the same time he had no way of knowing fully the circumstances under which Whieldon conducted his own study of the accused woman's condition.

Harding, later in his testimony, said he understood Whieldon used a tape recorder while examining Mrs. Ruff in Columbus. The defense alienist expressed belief this could make Mrs. Ruff "uncomfortable" through the period of examination.

In reply to a question by Ammer, Harding indicated he is not willing to state that Mrs. Ruff is always a victim of the same type of epileptic spells. He said persons often have more than one type of epilepsy and recalled that, a few days prior to the shooting, Mrs. Ruff had an attack that apparently was one of brief duration and virtually no movement.

His point was that this did not mean her attacks would necessarily always be of this sort.

Harding replied in the affirmative when Ammer asked him if a person suffering a "psychomotor" attack (being able to move around) could "shoot a person."

"And such persons are dangerous to society, are they not?" asked Ammer.

"Well, they certainly are at the time," Harding replied.

IN A DISCUSSION over whether or not epilepsy can be cured, Harding stressed the point that the question in any individual case can hardly be determined without thorough examination.

PUSAN (AP)—Allied guards armed with shotguns killed four Communist prisoners and wounded 45 in putting down a bloody riot by chanting, rock throwing captives on Yoncho Island Friday afternoon.

No UN security personnel were seriously hurt. The POW Command said the incident began when prisoners lined up in a stockade for a routine inspection refused to allow the compound commander to inspect the barracks.

PITTSBURGH, Kansas (AP)—Several weeks ago chickens at the Howard Windsor farm, near Pittsburg, began laying double yolk eggs. Windsor jokingly told his wife, who was expecting, that it might be an omen.

On April 1, a cow on the couple's farm gave birth to twin calves.

Tuesday morning Mrs. Windsor received her visit from the stork. She got twin boys.

ough examination and study of the apparent cause.

Like the defense alienist who preceded him to the stand, Harding said Mrs. Ruff told him she didn't know whether she had shot her husband. Harding, however, also quoted the defendant as adding: "They tell me I had a gun."

The state objected strenuously when Defense Attorney Paul Gingham, on re-direct examination, asked Harding if he believed Mrs. Ruff talked truthfully to him at the time of his examination.

Harding was later permitted to answer, however, and said:

"It was my opinion she was telling the truth." He explained all his impressions at the time were along the line of that conclusion—that he had no reason to doubt the defendant.

Asked if the "treatment Mrs. Ruff received at the hands of her husband" was an important detail in his diagnosis, the specialist replied "it was part of it, but not the important part."

Questioning then turned to "sleeping pills" Mrs. Ruff told of taking the night or early morning of the shooting.

IN THIS CONNECTION, Harding said certain drugs often used for this purpose have a tendency to reduce impending epileptic attacks. However, he pointed out that if insufficient drugs were used at the time, the effect would be only to modify the type of attack—possibly eliminating convulsions or falls but leaving the victim in a dazed condition that could last for an indefinite time.

Harding, under re-cross examination by Ammer, expressed belief that Dr. Dwight Palmer, court-appointed alienist, had reached erroneous conclusions in reference to Mrs. Ruff's case. However, Harding emphasized again that he "has no way of knowing whether Dr. Palmer and Dr. Whieldon were able to obtain all the facts."

Ammer, shortly before the weekend recess was called at 4:13 p. m. Friday, asked Harding if he would be willing to compare his findings with those of the court-appointed alienists. Harding said he would be willing to do so.

Marines Used In Atom Test

GIs In Trenches, 'Copters For Trial

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Twenty-two hundred Marines crouched in trenches today witnessed the most spectacular atomic blast of the spring series—a shot that flashed blinding white then turned a beautiful rosy orange during an unusually long-living after glow.

The pre-dawn detonation, first to involve Marines maneuvering in helicopters, was set off from a 300-foot tower.

After the explosion the ground troops, from Camp Pendleton, Calif., and Camp Lejeune, N. C., scrambled up and advanced in a tactical exercise toward a mock enemy. Their trenches were 4,000 yards from ground zero.

Leap-frogging over them came 200 more Marines in 40 transport helicopters applying vertical envelopment tactics, similar to those carried out in World War II by gliders and paratroops.

SIX MARINES and six soldiers rode out the blast in trenches well in advance of the main body of troops. Authorities would not disclose their distance from the blast. Nine volunteers were stationed 2,500 yards from ground zero in previous test.

The exercise commander, Brig. Gen. William C. Bullock, said there were no casualties.

The brilliant flash was seen in Los Angeles, 250 miles away, as an orange-yellow glow illuminating the entire sky.

The dirty white cloud that shot skyward after the shot bore down on this resort community, 75 miles from the Atomic Energy Commission's Yucca Flat proving ground, at a fast clip.

But as it neared the city the wind veered and it appeared the cloud would pass well to the north.

Less than a minute after the flash a fast-rising gray cloud became visible from here. In two of the earlier shots this year no cloud was seen from here.

However, observers felt no shock wave here and heard no sound. This has been the case in several of the shots this spring, even when flashes have been bright.

Young Mother Slays 2 Tots

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A pretty young mother who admitted killing her two small daughters Friday "because I'm so mean" remained in fair condition today in an East Lansing hospital from wounds suffered in an unsuccessful suicide attempt.

Police said Mrs. Helen Strieter, the 25-year-old wife of a Michigan State College graduate student, admitted killing her daughters, Sandra, 4, and Rhonda, 2½, in the small campus barracks apartment which the family occupied.

Consecration Is Theme For Christ Church

"Consecration" will be the theme for study Sunday morning during worship in church of Christ, meeting at 159 E. Main St.

"Consecration means to 'separate' or to 'set apart' from a common to a sacred use," points out Evangelist Charles Cochran.

"In becoming a child of God one must be willing to separate himself from a number of things that would hinder him from serving in this holy profession. This act of separation on the one hand, and a dedicating to a new life of service to the Lord on the other is called 'consecration'."

"A person is separated from the 'ignorance of sin' by hearing the gospel of Christ. No longer can one plead ignorance of his duty after once having learned the truth. One is separated from the 'love of sin' by faith in Christ (Heb. 11:6). Thus his affections are changed from a love of evil to a love and trust of good. After having believed on Christ as God's son, one is separated from the 'practice of sin' by repentance or a turning away from sin."

"In repentance he ceases to live a life of sin and dedicates himself to a life of righteous living (Luke 13:3). Even though the person may have learned the truth, professed faith in Christ, and turned away from the practice, he is still not a new creature, nor is he freed from the 'guilt' of his sins. A person is freed from the 'guilt of sin' by being baptized for the remission of sins (Mk 16:15-16; Acts 2:38). And finally, after becoming a new creature in Christ, one must consecrate himself wholly and unreservedly by living a life of worship and service to the Lord (Col. 3:1-25)."

Bible Words To Live By

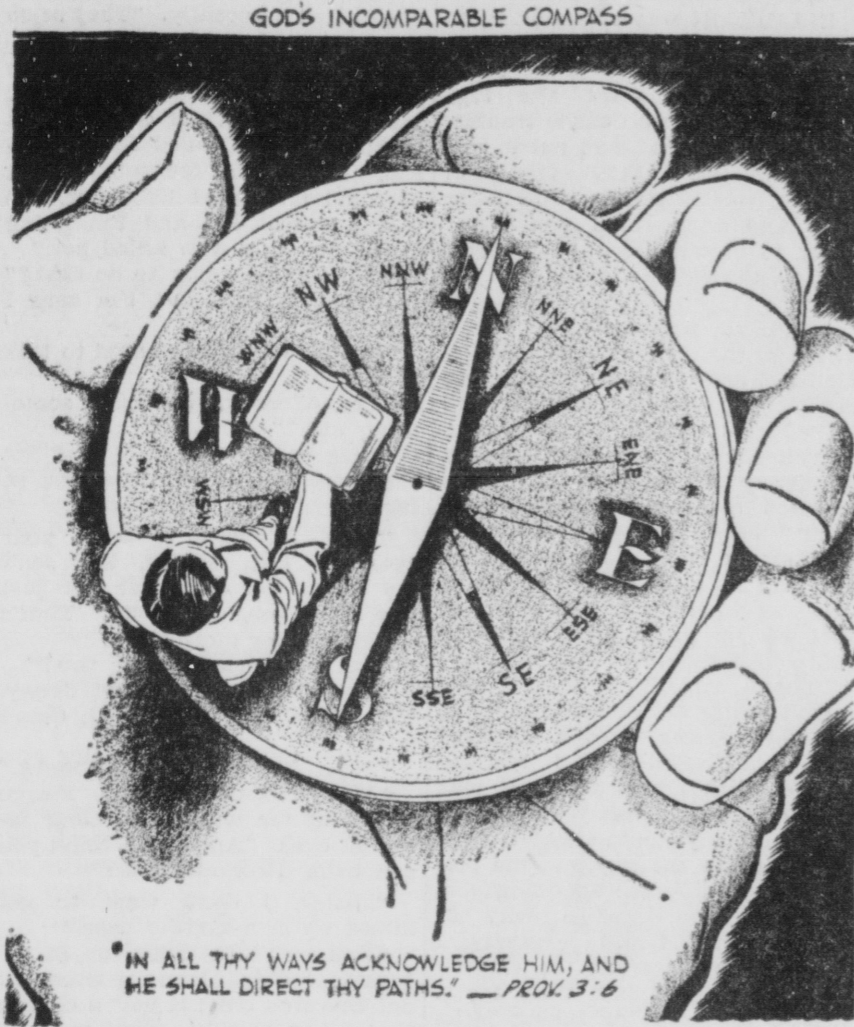

My favorite verse is from a Psalm:

Psalm 16:6, "The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage."

Daily incidents are continually reminding me of the goodness of God. I cannot eat a meal, look at our automatic washing machine or see the prosperity of the members of my congregation without being reminded of these words of David.

It is sweet to enjoy the material comforts and to pause to consider the pleasant places into which we have come. We need to remember how our forefathers have toiled to make possible our "goodly heritage," and how much of our heritage we owe to other peoples and times.

Because of their setting these words remind me that true goodness is not all material, that the "goods" of life are not just in labor-saving devices, plenty of food, clothing and comforts. With David

'God's Grace' Theme Readied For Lutherans

This Sunday, in both Trinity and Christ Lutheran churches, the Rev. George L. Troutman will conduct worship services on "God's Grace, the Cure for Fretfulness." based on the first verse of the 37th Psalm as follows: "Fret not thyself because of evildoers, neither be thou envious against the workers of iniquity."

The Rev. Mr. Troutman says: "Certainly as one looks about he sees that the unbeliever, the non-Christian, often is very prosperous, has much of this world's goods, is frequently honored with high positions, and life to him seems to be most good; yet we as Christians are not to look merely at these outward blessings and material signs of well being.

"Even in times of physical distress the Christian is reminded of God's Word, 'My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness.' As to the necessities of life the man who loves God need not fret for he has this promise of God, 'Seek first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things shall be yours as well.' And as to advancement the grace of God again supplies the Christians lack, 'I can do all things in him who strengthens me'.

"Certainly of all people the Christian need never complain or be fretful if he has let the grace of God work in him as Paul did when he said, 'Not that I complain of want; for I have learned, in whatever state I am, to be content.' May each one of you experience God's grace as fully."

The junior choir and the children's choir will join in singing an anthem, "O Savior Sweet." The junior choir will lead the congregational singing, accompanied by Mrs. Karl Herrmann at the organ.

Christian Growth To Be Theme In Calvary Church

"Christian Growth" is the theme for worship service Sunday in Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church.

As the topic of his morning sermon, the Rev. James A. Herbst has chosen the theme "Increasing Our Spiritual Stature." The message will be based upon the direction of the writer of 2nd Peter 3:18 when he directed the Christians in the various churches throughout Asia, "But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

The Pastor will seek to point out that even as in life those persons who are admired as graceful, gracious, and having other desirable traits must develop and cultivate these over a period of time, so must Christians who seek to be Christlike in their characters and lives, likewise engage in these spiritual disciplines which will bring about the development of such spiritual traits or graces.

The Pastor will be assisted by the assistant Sunday School Superintendent, Clark Zvavere and Pianist Miss Minnie Wilkerson. The youth choir, directed by Mrs. J. A. Herbst and accompanied by Mrs. Richard Crawford, will sing an anthem entitled, "Sweet Peace, the Gift of God's Love."

Following the service of worship, the congregation will dismiss to classes to study a lesson "Paul Becomes A Missionary." Throughout the morning, the children's department, which includes all of the children under the ages of 12, will engage in their own class lesson study, followed by their hour of worship together.

Great Shipwreck Theme Planned For Methodists

"The Great Shipwreck" will be the sermon theme of the Rev. Robert Weaver during worship service Sunday in First Methodist church.

Using an old text "Saul took a sword, and fell upon it," the theme of the sermon will follow the truth that a man is his best friend or his worst enemy. Only with the help of God can a man be lifted above himself into true sonship with the heavenly father.

Mrs. Ervin Leist has chosen "Meditation," "Evening Idyl" and "See the Conquering Hero Come" for her organ selections for the service.

Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh will lead the senior choir in an anthem, "Soft Were the Hands of Jesus." A class of members will be received at the close of the morning worship service.

The Junior High Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet at 6 p. m. with a group from the Fellowship participating in the worship part of the service. An important item of business will be the selection of some major activity of service for the church as a whole. The Rev. Mr. Weaver will direct a recreation program of folk games at the close of the worship.

Senior High Methodist Fellowship will have the second of a series of programs on vocations. Beverly Southward and Walter Heine will direct the worship service.

Reaching Out From Antioch

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 11:19-26; 13-14.

After Stephen's death Christians were cruelly persecuted, and some traveled as far as Antioch and preached Christ there. When word of this came to Jerusalem, they sent Barnabas to Antioch on the first missionary journey.

Barnabas brought Paul to Antioch; then they were directed to go to Cyprus. A sorcerer named Bar-jesus, tried to prevent a deputy, Sergius Paulus, from hearing the word of God. Paul rebuked Bar-jesus severely, and he was blinded.

Coming to Lystra where they preached, a man crippled since birth listened to Paul. Paul saw he had faith to be healed, so he called to him in a loud voice, "Stand upright upon thy feet," and the man leaped and walked.

Sailing back to Antioch they gathered the church members together and told them all that God had done with them, and how He had "opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles."

George E. Sokolsky's
These Days
Unless the fighting in Korea is a war, it cannot end in a peace. That is undoubtedly the difficulty that the various statesmen face. Also, if the two principals in all this are not the United States and Soviet Russia, who are they? If North Korea is one of the principals, why is not South Korea the other?
Like so much else that has been happening in our world since 1938, nothing ever comes out mathematically. For instance, the European War started in 1939, because Germany, assisted by Russia, violated the territorial sovereignty of Poland, and a few treaties as well. When the war was ostensibly over, Soviet Russia owned Poland, which had practically ceased to be a sovereign country. At Potsdam, it was agreed that a number of countries that had been "liberated" from the Germans were to establish governments of their own choice by "democratic means." This has not happened.

Instead, these countries were conquered, as though by war, by Russia. Yet, the Russians are members of the United Nations as a "peace-loving country," while Spain and Ireland, which conquered no peoples, are excluded from the United Nations. Nationalist China, the recognized government of that country since 1927, fought Japan since 1931, our ally since 1941, has been driven off the Asiatic continent through the errors of judgment and methods of General George Marshall and has been forced to take refuge on the island of Formosa; yet Marshall is extolled and honored by being appointed to represent our nation at the coronation of Queen Elizabeth. But General MacArthur, who heroically fought in the field in Asia, lives in retirement, selling electric razors and typewriters.

This topsy-turvyism finds Georgi Malenkov proposing a peace, designed not to establish universal peace, or even the co-existence about which the Russians speak so freely, as though it were a respite for us from death, but rather to separate us from our allies and to isolate the United States from all the countries we have been aiding to the amount of about $100 billion of the earnings of the American people. And some of our allies would prefer to be separated because they want trade, not aid, and believe that the trade of Russia and China is worth more than the friendship of the United States, which twice went to their rescue with blood and treasure.

S. Bernard, member of the Institut Emile Vandervelde of Brussels, Belgium, a Socialist, writing in "World Politics," makes this notable point:
"Having created the United Nations in the image of their moral and legalistic conception of international society, the Western powers proceeded to make particularly dangerous use of it; they protested systematically—and for reasons of pure principle—against the integration of the Eastern European countries into the Soviet bloc. This extension of the Soviet zone of influence was, after all, the logical consequence of Russia's victory over Germany. By agreeing to this development in advance at Yalta, the Western powers accepted an historical calamity."
"Once Germany had been defeated and disarmed, Russia became naturally the leading power in that part of Europe. It would have required a war to prevent the USSR from reaping this gain, as it would

DIET AND HEALTH
When Symptoms May Lie

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
PAIN is often transmitted from one part of the body to another, known to the medical profession as referred pain.
For example, pain of the appendix may first occur around the navel, although the appendix is not in this location. Pain in the knee is often from the hip, and pain in the ear is often due to tongue disorders.
Intestinal Difficulties
Difficulties with the large intestine may produce pain in the chest, left shoulder, neck and arm. Usually, these attacks begin with some emotional disturbance and are relieved when gas or feces is expelled through the rectum. The disturbance has to be in the left side of the large intestine as it makes its way across the abdomen.
Notably, persons suffering from spastic or mucous colitis, as it is known, complain of such symptoms. Attacks of chest pain and pain down the arm have been proven to occur in this manner by research physicians who have inserted a balloon on a tube up into the portion of the large intestine known as the splenic flexure. The balloon is then inflated and the patients all seem to get the symptoms of chest pain. The pain is very often similar to angina pectoris, which is one of the precursors of heart disease.

Wrong Diagnosis
Some persons are needlessly worried that they have heart disease, when actually their symptoms are due to the fact that colon disease is diagnosed as heart disease.
Persons suffering from this disorder may be helped with a bland diet in which all spices, condiments, raw fruits and vegetables and other irritating foods are removed. The use of various antispasmodic drugs are also of help in certain cases, but they should be only taken upon the advice of a doctor.
QUESTION AND ANSWER
E. B.: Several weeks ago I had an attack of shingles. The pain over the area where I had the shingles has persisted. What would you advise?
Answer: Shingles, or herpes zoster, is due to a virus infection of the skin nerves and produces small blisters over the area affected. Usually, most of these cases clear up spontaneously. However, pain may last a few weeks or months after the attack. In a few cases, local nerve blocks may relieve the pain.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN
ELLERTON was still staring at me, breathing hard. "I said you got a big mouth," he said. "I don't like big mouths. I don't like big-mouthed punks who cause trouble. Now take some advice; get in our way and you'll think you're in front of a steamroller. Now clear out. And don't think you aren't lucky to be walking out of here."
"Gee, thanks, Mr. Ellerton." "Beat it."
I walked across to the door, aware of the drumming silence behind me, and the eyes probing into my back. At the door I turned and looked back at them. "By the way, do you know a guy named Tommy Weissman?" I said. "I understand he used to hang out in these parts."
"Yeah, I knew Tommy," Ellerton said in a slow puzzled voice. "He was a good boy. I hear he got shot up by some private cop in Philly last month."
"That's right," I said. "He wasn't really so good after all. He thought he was tough, I'll give him that." Suddenly I realized how childish I was being. I was a stupid bragging ass. Why couldn't I keep my big mouth shut?
"You were the guy, eh, the private cop?" Ellerton said slowly. "It was too late to deny it."
"That's right," I said pleasantly. I felt a little better at the expressions that came onto their faces. What's the point of taking jerks like Tommy Weissman if you can't brag about it occasionally? Especially to their old friends and fellow hoodlums.
They didn't say anything, but simply looked me over with eyes that had become thoughtful and businesslike. I waited to them and walked out.
Downstairs I caught a cab and went back to the Star. I found a bar across the street from it and had a few drinks. Everything was breaking beautifully, I thought. After all, I was still alive and that item belonged on the credit side of the ledger. I wrote a note on a paper napkin, a short but eloquent note, to the red-headed dice girl at the Star, and gave a waiter two bucks to deliver it. He came back a few minutes later, nodded at me, winked significantly and made a circle with his thumb and forefinger.
I gathered I was in.
The red-head came in around two in the morning, a happy smile on her doll-like face, and wearing a beautifully cut black linen suit and black ankle-strap sandals. The few men who were sitting tiredly at the bar brightened as she sauntered toward me, and their heads pivoted in unison to follow her free-wheeling hips and the flash of her slim, delightfully tanned legs. I stood as she slid into the booth. "Hi," she said, still wearing her happy babyish smile. "You never came back to finish your game."
The men at the bar went back to their drinks, probably wondering what I had that they didn't.
"I'm glad you missed me," I said. I ordered drinks and lit her cigarette. "What's your name?"
"Margo."
"How are you, Margo? My name is Bill, Bill Canallan."

WASHINGTON, April 18—"Don't you think it impertinent," asks F. G. of Buffalo, N. Y., "for the Senate Armed Services Committee to suggest that General Van Fleet become its official adviser? It hardly seems fair or judicious for them to rely on a man who has been so critical of his former colleagues in the Pentagon."
Answer: On the contrary, I think it an excellent idea, and I base my reply on long observance of the system of liaison between congressional committees and the defense units over which they are supposed to have jurisdiction. There might have been no ammunition shortage problem, if the Senate and House committees had been better informed by such an expert as Van Fleet.
In the past, when the House and Senate committees dealing with defense problems asked the Army, Navy or Air brass for an adviser, they were given a colonel, a major or a captain. Frequently, these officers were not too expert or experienced in their respective fields. Because of their low rank, they dared not take exception to reports prepared for Congress by superior officers. They became mere messenger boys between Capitol Hill and the Pentagon.
VALUABLE—A man like Van Fleet, with his intimate knowledge of conditions and personal acquaintanceship with high-ranking fellow officers, could be of invaluable help to the legislators. They would learn of difficulties like the ammunition crisis before, instead of after the fact.
The "big brass" have enjoyed for too long a sort of sacrosanct and untouchable position. It is time, as Senator Byrd notes, that they showed a more responsive and responsible attitude toward the American people, whose sons' lives they have in keeping.

Third Course In Flower Show School Planned

Garden Club of Ohio will present two widely acclaimed horticulturists as speakers of the Flower Show School, Course III, to be held in Columbus April 28, 29 and 30. They are Mrs. Archibald Wilson Walker of Spartansburg, S. C., and Mrs. J. R. Otto of Little Rock, Ark. Both are experienced gardeners, popular speakers and both well known accredited flower show judges.

Mrs. Walker, who will conduct the school on April 28 has participated in judging schools in New York, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Georgia. She has attended horticultural schools and gardening clinics give by the agricultural departments of University of North Carolina, University of Georgia, Clemson college, and Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Mrs. Walker studied under H. Stuart Orthoff, widely known landscape architect and author and has done field work with a practicing landscape gardener. She recently completed a lecture tour of six states.

Mrs. Otto will conduct the school on April 29. She is a graduate of Michigan State college, where she took advanced work in floriculture. A written examination will be held April 30 for those who wish to qualify as accredited judges of National Council.

The school is primarily held for the benefit of those wishing to become judges, but the public is invited.

Mrs. Emmett Barnhart, local chairman, says that all gardeners will find inspiration in the lectures. It is not necessary to have attended Courses I and II. Scholarship To Be Offered By Junior Woman's Club

Within a few days, judges in a scholarship contest, being sponsored for the first time this year by the Circleville Junior Woman's Club, will begin screening contestants for a scholarship in the nursing or teaching professions.

Because of the great need for nurses and elementary teachers, the club has specified that a girl, in order to be eligible for the award, must plan to continue her education in one of these fields.

A letter sent by the club scholarship committee, early in March, to each superintendent of schools in the county, invited the superintendent to submit a recommendation for one or two girls who would be members of the 1953 graduating class. The letter also stated that the scholarship in the amount of $300.00 would be divided and paid to the student over the three or four year period of her training.

The club has also specified that any student who does not complete her course, will automatically be barred from receiving the unpaid amount of her award.

Judges in the contest will be the president of Junior Woman's Club, the contest chairman, and a grade school teacher not yet selected. County Superintendent George D. McDowell and City Superintendent of Schools, Frank Fischer have also been invited to assist with the judging.

In addition to the recommendation by the school head, each contestant is required to write a letter her hopes and plans for the future.

Judging is to be based largely on scholarship, but the judges will also give special consideration to a girl who has been outstanding in student and community activities.

Before judging is completed around May 1, it is expected that the contestants personally before making a selection. The winner will receive the award at the time of her graduation.

Belated Power Of Redlegs Finally Shows

CINCINNATI (AP)—That power the Cincinnati Redlegs have been talking about all spring has exploded.

It came at a good time, too, because the pitching sagged. The power paid off as the Redlegs won their first game of the National League season with a 10-9 triumph over the Milwaukee Braves. It also was Milwaukee's first defeat of the season.

The big sluggers for Cincinnati were Ted Kluszewski, Jim Green-grass and Gus Bell with home runs but the boy who put the crusher on the Braves was little Johnny Temple. His two-run single broke a 7-7 deadlock in the top of the eighth and then Bobby Adams drove in the run that eventually decided the game.

The Redlegs were out 12-10, but they whipped the Braves in home runs and those were the blows that counted most.

Eddie Mathews hit the only circuit blow for the Braves. Green-grass came with two on for Cincinnati and Bell followed with the other walloper out of the park.

Ted Williams' Discharge Hinted

BOSTON (AP)—A Philadelphia friend of ex-Red Sox star Ted Williams, now a Marine jet pilot in Korea, says the baseball slugger is suffering from an ear ailment that could mean his discharge from the service.

Bill Churchman, who flew with Williams in World War II and instructed him when Williams returned to active duty, said:

"Ted's ears clogged up in the fast descent when his plane was hit, took a nose dive and caught on fire in Korea and that his hearing has been impaired since."

In that smashup Williams survived a belly landing.

States were never in the European War at all.

They do not even recall that the Americans could have taken Berlin and Prague but waited for the slower Russians to come up and to claim victory. They do not even note that the Americans could have held the whole of Berlin but that stupidity dictated a policy of letting the Russians take that pivotal city, giving us a zone with neither an entrance nor an exit.

And so, naturally, it is a Russian victory, for what else can it be? And if we are not careful, it will be a Russian victory in Korea and His Marxian Excellency, Chou En-lai, will sit in the United Nations on the East River in New York, joining Vishinsky in Stalinist obscenities against the United States.

It could happen in the extraordinary confusions characteristic of the Acheson school of diplomacy, which still hangs over the State Department despite a Republican victory.

Dry-Feeding Young Pigs Seen Resulting In More Gains

Tests Reveal Early Weaning May Be Best

Baby Pigs On Dry Feed At 5 To 7 Days Gain Well

Baby pigs can be put on dry feed at from five to seven days of age—and make gains up to 37 per cent better than those left with the sow.

That conclusion, backed by feeding records and weights at six and eight weeks, was presented to the American Institute of Nutrition last week.

The experiments, which were conducted on an experimental farm involved feeding 227 pigs variations of seven different rations. Control pigs were sow-sucked in traditional fashion.

It was established at that time that piglets would learn to drink milk from a trough a day or two after birth. The new discovery—that the dry synthetic need not be converted into a liquid milk—is an outcome of efforts to overcome the tendency of baby pigs to get wet and chilled when given liquid synthetic milk in a trough.

AT MOST, in these experiments, the dry-fed pigs were given a moist "mush" for two days to wean them from the sow and onto the dry milk, or other ration.

Pigs started this way on dry milk solids combined with terramycin, vitamins, minerals, proteins, fat, and other ingredients, were compared with pigs started on liquid synthetic milk and others fed only on a pig starter high in terramycin and containing all the other essential ingredients.

Opinion of experimenters on the revolutionary technique of dry-feeding baby pigs is:

"The comparative growth responses obtained on dry and wet feeding (synthetic milk) indicate approximately equivalent results are obtained. In converting the pigs to dry feeding, a slop feeding period of two to three days is desirable in order to acclimate the animal to the transition to dry feeding.

"The management problems associated with wet feeding are greatly reduced, indicating dry feeding has distinct advantages."

Highest weight recorded was made by a lot of nine pigs which were given no liquid milk after being taken from the sows—was 26 pounds at six weeks and 49 pounds at eight weeks. Highest eight-week weight for liquid-fed pigs was 41 pounds. All pigs in the tests were given access to a good pig starter at all times.

Anna Wants To Be Free To Be Free

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"I love your skyscrapers—they are like stretching tentacles, pleading for the sky," said the world's highest paid actress.

Then Anna Magnani of Italy leaned back in bed and took a thoughtful puff on her cigar. So I leaned back, too—in a chair by the bed—and took a puff on the cigar she had given me.

It actually is called a cigarillo, a slender plastic-tipped cigar no larger than a king-size cigarette and popular with both men and women in parts of Europe. Anna likes them, but smokes only two or three a week.

"They are sent to me by my favorite admirer—my son, Luca," she explained. Luca, who is 11, is in school in Switzerland.

Anna, who recently completed an Italian film called "Bellissima," was so worn out by her first five days in America that when I called at her hotel suite she decided to be interviewed in bed.

She wore yellow pajamas trimmed in blue. She has a long midnight mane, framing a face of Roman gold, and as she leaned back against the pillow she looked like a tawny, well-fed lioness—violence in repose.

"First, I interview you," said Anna. "You like Italian women?" "Yes."

"Do you like me?" "Yes."

That ended her interview. So I took up the questioning.

"Do you like American men?" "I would like to marry one and find out."

If she does, he'll be a lucky fellow. Anna is reported to get $125,000 a picture, plus $1,000 a day overtime, and the Italian income tax is hardly even the nuisance that a sales tax is in this country. One American spaghetti manufacturer is said to have phoned her and asked what she would want to endorse his product. "Oh, about $50,000," said Anna, and the startled manufacturer murmured "wrong number," and hung up.

Anna is willing to make a film here, even at a financial sacrifice.

"It depends on the artist's freedom I would have," she said. "With me freedom is everything. I must be free."

A gleam came into her eyes which look like two BB pellets or spots of black caviar sunk in amber pools. She is as temperamental as Tallulah Bankhead.

"I like your New York," she said. "It has more personality than Paris. Rome lets herself be loved like a woman. But New York is fascinating, because it is so big and violent like some men."

"But it is so noisy. Two pigeons on the ledge woke me up this morning quarrelling. They were husband and wife. He was jealous. She must have betrayed him."

Anna, born in utter poverty, now lives in a five-room penthouse built on an old palace in Rome. She says she prefers small towns, because she has a fear of distance and bigness, but loves to prow cities at night.

"At night a city is free to live for itself," she explained. "But in the daytime a city only works for the people in it."

As I started to leave, Anna exploded like a volcano. She leaped to her feet, bounded up and down on the bed, shook hands, pulled a hank of her black hair across her face to make a Hitler-

Twisting her luxuriant hair is one of her childlike mannerisms. I asked her why she did it. "It keeps me company," she said. "Goodbye. They make me do too many things. Some time I would like to come back to this country when I could be free to be free."

Bug-Killers To Have More Power In '53

Insects Could Cause $5 Billion Damage To Growing Crops

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Harder-to-kill bugs are venturing forth about now to attempt damage that could run to around five billion dollars. They will find the American farmer and householder armed this year with a wider choice of specialized killers—including some friendly bugs.

Insecticide output is up sevenfold in five years. Some 350 million pounds of different kinds of it are available, including some new ones aimed at getting the flies and other pests who have become immune to some earlier types, like war-born DDT.

When the 17-year locust comes forth this summer, for example, he'll be met by tetraethyl pyrophosphate for the first time.

There are gadgets, too: Hollow-tooth combs to get at fleas and ticks on dogs; lamps that let off fumes that kill or repel insects; squeeze bottles that spray both insecticides and chlorophyll.

Farmers will have the benefit of around five million dollars worth of research on pesticides last year by private firms, exclusive of government agency spending.

Some of the specialized ones touted this year are:

A combined insect and disease protectant by du Pont both disinfects seed and kills insects in the soil bent on attacking the seed or plant.

Gardners are offered a new insecticide by American Cyanamid Co. that specializes on doing in aphids, mites, scales, mealy-bugs, leaf hoppers and thrips.

Farmers storing wheat, corn and other grain are offered pyrethrin wheat protectant and pyrene grain protectant by U. S. Industrial Chemicals Co. It aims at keeping grain free of insect damage while in storage—a loss that often runs into millions of dollars in a year.

pyrethrin combination by S. B. Penick & Co. that is claimed to be 12 times as toxic as pyrethrins alone. Flies that have learned to laugh at DDT will run up against a mixture of lindane and chlorinated polyphenyl which the U. S. Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine says has twice the lethal power of lindane alone.

High time, too, as the housefly traced radioactive ones for 20 miles.

Port Royal in Jamaica in the West Indies was destroyed by an earthquake in 1692.

Animals can live only by eating plants or other animals which live on plants.

61 Refugees Here

NEW YORK (AP)—Sixty-one refugees, mostly from Iron Curtain countries, arrived here by plane Friday from Germany. Most escaped from Communist-dominated lands before 1948.

Walkout Ends

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Workers in Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.'s seamless mill finishing department were back on the job today after a 24-hour strike. About 400 walked out over disciplinary action against two cranimen.

Deckhand Dies In Electric Chair

MOONSVILLE, W. Va. (AP)—An Ohio River deckhand died in the electric chair here Friday night for the murder of a taxi owner.

Oshel Gardner Jr., 23, of Gallipolis Ferry, W. Va., prayed as he was fastened in the chair. Warden Orel J. Skeen said Gardner talked with two chaplains, although he previously had refused to do so.

Gardner was convicted Jan. 14 of the murder of Roy C. Jackson. He hailed Jackson's cab, robbed him, killed him, and then drove the cab to Huntington.

Defense Alienists Describe Epileptic 'Confused States'

Two prominent Columbus psychiatrists testified Friday in the first-degree murder trial of Mary Agnes Ruff that she probably was in an epileptic "state of confusion" the morning her husband was fatally shot in their home near South Bloomfield.

Both alienists said the 34-year-old farm-wife told them she "didn't know" whether she fired the shots which killed her husband, Daniel Ruff Jr., as he lay in bed Jan. 15.

Testimony of the specialists, Dr.

Milton Parker and Dr. George Harding, took all of the afternoon session after direct examination of Mrs. Ruff had ended at noon recess. Cross-examination of the defendant is expected to begin at 9:30 a. m. Monday when the trial goes into its third week.

Attorneys estimated the case would go to the jury late next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Important parts of testimony given Friday by Parker and Harding differed from the opinions expressed on the witness stand earlier in the trial by two court-appointed alienists.

one to determine Mrs. Ruff's "sanity"—is one seeking to establish the form or forms of epilepsy involved in the defendant's case. In some, the mental confusion is relatively brief and the afflicted person is seized by convulsions or held in motionless state. In at least one other form—"psychomotor" attacks—the person may move from place to place and appear outwardly normal for a period of hours or longer.

Dr. Harding, the last witness called Friday afternoon, examined Mrs. Ruff in Pickaway County jail a short time before the trial began.

HE SAID THAT on the basis of all the information given and made available to him, he believes Mrs. (Continued on Page Two)

Busiest Week Of War Noted By Airmen

SEOUL (AP)—Waves of Allied warplanes, including swift Sabrejets flying as fighter-bombers, plastered Communist fortifications in Western Korea today as the Air Force rounded out its busiest week of the Korean War.

In the week ending Friday night, 7,790 sorties were flown against the Reds, an all-time high for the nearly three-year-old conflict.

Sabres bagged 18 Communist MiGs in sky battles high over North Korea during the week, the biggest weekly kill since last October. Only one Sabre fell in combat, but nine more Allied planes went down to ground fire or mechanical troubles.

Air Force and Marine jets joined forces for Saturday's attacks on the western front where Communist troops were regrouping after being thrown off Pork Chop Hill and other strategic outposts.

About 200 Chinese Reds hit Pork Chop before dawn in the second assault on U. S. 7th Division infantry positions. However, the attacks fizzled out in the face of deadly American fire.

There was no immediate estimate of Red casualties in their latest attack on Pork Chop. The Communists swarmed up the slopes shortly after midnight and the attack carried some Reds into 7th Division trenches.

Ike To Continue Use Of Draft

WASHINGTON (AP)—Even if fighting ends in Korea, the Eisenhower administration says it will ask Congress to keep the draft law in force.

The law is due to expire in 1955, but Dr. John A. Hannah, assistant secretary of defense for manpower, said defense chiefs will ask that it be extended. He said Congress also would be asked to extend the draft of medical officers beyond the June 30, 1954, expiration date.

Troop Train Jumps Rails; One Killed

WEST UNION, W. Va. (AP)—Seven of 10 cars of a Nevada-bound Army troop train were derailed here last night in an accident which apparently caused no more than minor injuries to the soldiers.

The engineer was killed and the fireman injured. A spokesman for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad quoted the officer in charge of the troops as saying none of them was hurt seriously.

Prisoner Exchange Timetable Set Up

Monday To See Historic Trade Of Disabled Soldiers In Korea

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—UN and Communist staff officers today agreed tentatively on a time schedule for Monday's historic exchange of disabled prisoners of the Korean War.

And they completed arrangements for a meeting of liaison officers Sunday to set a date for resuming the suspended full scale Korean armistice talks.

The tentative schedule calls for the first exchange of sick and wounded prisoners at 9 a. m. Monday (7 p. m., Sunday, EST).

All five delegates of the UN's main truce team were in Korea today. They could be in Panmunjom, the weathered truce talk village, in a matter of hours when the fast-breaking developments of the last couple weeks add up to a call to re-open the stalled talks.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison, head of the UN delegation, and Air Force Brig. Gen. Edgar Glenn, another member, flew here from Japan today.

HARRISON came to observe the exchange of sick and wounded POWs, set to begin in Panmunjom Monday, and to be briefed on latest developments.

Harrison said he has no objection to talking truce with the Reds in Panmunjom even while an exchange of disabled prisoners goes on only a few yards from the conference hut. He would make no predictions. "I just play it from day to day," he said.

Already at this advance truce headquarters of the UN Command is a third team member, Rear Adm. John C. Daniel.

He will head the liaison group that will meet the Communists at Panmunjom at 11 a. m. Sunday (9 p. m. Saturday, EST) and discuss re-opening the full scale talks.

The two other truce delegates are at Army posts in Korea but only a few minutes by small plane from the armistice site.

The exchange timetable for Monday would start Operation Little Switch at 9 a. m. Monday (7 p. m. Sunday, EST).

Col. Douglas M. Cairns, UN staff officer, said the proposed times "appeared reasonable" but told the Reds, "We would like to make a thorough study of them before definitely agreeing."

THE REDS proposed that they deliver captured Allied troops to the Panmunjom exchange point in groups of 25 at 9 a. m., 9:30 a. m., 2 p. m., and 2:30 p. m. The Reds have said they will release 600 Allied prisoners, including 150 Americans and other non-Korean nationals, at the rate of 100 a day.

The Communists asked the Allies to deliver captured Reds in four groups of 25 each between 9 and 9:30 a. m.; four groups between 10 and 10:30 a. m.; four between 11 and 11:30 a. m.; four between 2 and 2:30 p. m., and four between 3 and 3:30 p. m. The UN is releasing 5,800 Communists, including 700 Chinese, at 500 a day.

The main business for the liaison officers meeting Sunday will be setting a date for the formal talks.

But there is a chance the Reds might give some indication of their feelings toward the UN proposal on how to settle the issue of 5,000 Communist prisoners who say they will resist repatriation to Communist soil.

Communist China's Premier Chou En-lai late last month proposed immediate exchange of those prisoners willing to return home with the others turned over to a neutral country.

The UN has suggested Switzerland as the neutral country. The UN proposal given the Reds Thursday said the prisoners in dispute should be kept in Korea under custody of the neutral state.

The UN plan was outlined in a letter Harrison sent to Lt. Gen. Nam Il, senior Red delegate, accepting the Red request that full armistice talks be resumed.

Harrison coupled his proposal with a warning to the Communists that unless the meetings indicated agreement "within a reasonable time" the UN would again suspend the talks.

Wilson Earned $581,000 In '52

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson earned $581,000 in salary and bonuses during his last year as president of General Motors Corp.

Wilson and 65 other top executives and directors of the huge concern earned a total of $11,878,712 in salaries and bonuses during 1952. These figures were disclosed in the notice of the corporation's annual meeting of stockholders scheduled for May 22. Wilson now earns $22,500 a year as a member of President Eisenhower's Cabinet.

Oxford Native Gets Top Post

McKay said Farley will replace Albert M. Day in several weeks. He said Day has been offered another position in the service.

Dust, Ice, Fire Hit Western States After Spring Storm

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—A spring storm sweeping out of Canada today scattered towering dust clouds, ice and fire through six western states.

Forest fires in New Mexico and Arizona cracked under lashing winds. Gritty clouds of reddish dust as high as 20,000 feet blanketed out western skies from Southern Colorado and Eastern Arizona into Oklahoma and Texas.

Motorists skidded on icy Colorado roads and 14 cars and trucks piled up in a blinding New Mexico sand storm. One person was killed and at least 10 injured in scattered accidents.

Oklahoma farmers watched their crops as the mercury skidded to below freezing.

Colorado and Wyoming ranchers were told to get livestock under cover as seven inches of snow from the north piled up at Big Piney, Wyo.

Freezing rains and fog hit Oklahoma and Texas.

MORE THAN 1,000 men were on the firelines in Southern New Mexico attempting to control flames which swept from a sawmill spark through 13,440 acres of virgin pine in the Lincoln National Forest. Loss is estimated at $804,000.

Forest rangers said hundreds of small spot fires were rushing ahead of the lines on winds up to 60 miles an hour Friday night. The Weather Bureau forecast continued winds today up to 50 miles an hour.

In the Coronado National Forest of Eastern Arizona, 225 men fought what officers termed a man-made blaze which today had destroyed about 2,000 acres.

Winds 35 to 45 miles an hour carried the Arizona fire rapidly through dry fir and pine to within three miles of some cabins.

The district Weather Bureau in Albuquerque said the dust blanket Friday swirled over Alamosa, Colo., Eastern Arizona, all of New Mexico, and far into Texas and Oklahoma.

New Mexico state police blamed the dust for the death Friday of Mrs. Beatrice Marie Brooks, 29, of Pacoima, Calif. The car in which she was riding was one of 14 vehicles which piled up on a sand-swept quarter of a mile of U. S. 66 near Grants, N. M.

HER HUSBAND, Paul, and daughter, Patsy, 10, and a passenger, Mrs. Paul de Moss, 3, of Springfield, Ohio, were reported in fair condition in an Albuquerque hospital.

Icy roads in Colorado caused a car carrying an elderly Denver couple to overturn near Watkins, Colo. They were seriously injured. Five were hospitalized when a Denver city bus skidded into another bus.

Editors Told Of Gains Made In News Suppression Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Important news suppression were reported today to the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

But James S. Pope, chairman of ASNE's Freedom of Information Committee, advised 400 editors in their annual meeting here to adopt an attitude of "watchful waiting and suspended judgment" on information policies of the Eisenhower administration.

In some moves the Republicans have seemed "fearful of full public knowledge," Pope, executive editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, said. He expressed hope these gestures arose merely "from inexperience, from initial caution, from misunderstandings."

"We have been led to believe," he added, that an executive order issued in September, 1951, by former President Truman authorizing civilian agencies to set up tight security classifications of information "will be withdrawn or substantially modified."

IT IS "QUITE likely" also, he predicted, that Congress will enact a law guaranteeing the public and press access to government records which do not involve national security. Such a law presumably would, in addition, strengthen the hand of congressional committees in obtaining executive records.

Paul Block Jr., co-publisher of the Toledo Blade and chairman of the society's subcommittee on atomic information, was less optimistic than Pope. Some qualified observers, he said, have warned that "harmful security may get a new lease on life" under the new administration. He added:

"The curtain around the United States atomic energy program is obstructing scientific progress in the development of uses of the new force."

"There have been numerous complaints that civil defense authorities have not been told enough about atomic warfare to defend the public against it."

Despite the cautious prediction by Pope that President Eisenhower may withdraw or relax the Truman security order, President Eisenhower himself has said little to indicate he will do so. He told a recent news conference he has not decided what to do, but invited newspapers to report any instances of abuse.

ATTY. GEN. Brownell yesterday invited the society to send a committee to discuss with him methods of protecting military data while still maintaining "American standards of freedom of information."

Pope ticked off the news performances of other Cabinet officers. Secretary of State Dulles, he said, "shows evidence of giving more than lip service" to freedom of information; Secretary of Agriculture Benson's press relations have been "somewhat strained"; the Pentagon "remains somewhat of an enigma"; and Secretary of Defense Wilson has proposed new rules to "button up" what he considers too much talk.

Ike Orders Yacht Placed In Mothballs

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower has ordered the presidential yacht Williamsburg out of service and into the "mothball fleet" because "the White House believes it is a symbol of needless luxury."

Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, used those words in announcing the decision today at the president's vacation headquarters.

Between now and June 30, when the Williamsburg will be stored away by the Navy, the yacht will be used twice weekly for Potomac River and Chesapeake Bay cruises for wounded war veterans, Hagerty said.

He added that the yacht, which was used frequently by former President Truman, will be taken out of presidential service May 31. The secretary estimated annual cost of operating the yacht at $600,000. A saving of that much won't be realized, however, because that figure includes the salaries of its crew of 123 officers and men who will be transferred to other duty.

Actual cost of operating the ship itself is estimated at about $75,000 a year.

The only time Eisenhower used the yacht was on March 26 when he met aboard with Premier Rene Mayer and other French government officials.

Woman Admits Shooting Mate

DETROIT (AP)—A 34-year-old woman taxicab driver today admitted shooting her husband to death four months ago and hiding his body in a shed.

Assistant Prosecutor Stanley Grzankowski said Mrs. Elizabeth Culver Sembdner told police she shot her husband, Arthur Jr., 45, a welder, with a pistol Dec. 27 while he was choking her. The story came to light Friday when the woman's dog was found playing with a human skull on the front lawn.

Sen. Ferguson Demands Slash In U.S. Budget

Ike Administration Shows Signs Of Lag In Western Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) called today for a $6 billion cut in arms and atomic spending, amid signs the Eisenhower administration may support a slower buildup of Western defense.

The proposal by Ferguson, chairman of the Senate armed service appropriations subcommittee, came in the face of an assertion by Sen. Symington (D-Mo.) that U. S. military strength is lagging further behind Russia's every day.

Attention centered on a speech Secretary of State Dulles will make tonight at 10 p. m., EST, before the American Society of Newspaper Editors. The speech will be broadcast and telecast nationally by ABC and rebroadcast at 11 p. m. by NBC.

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), acting chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee before which Dulles appeared Friday, said the speech will discuss the rate of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization buildup.

SEN. GILLETTE (D-Iowa), who also heard Dulles' testimony, said he felt the secretary was considering a possible shift to "the long pull rather than a hurried, extraordinary buildup."

After his closed-door meeting with the committee, Dulles told newsmen in effect that President Eisenhower's peace proposals before the editors' society Thursday had put Russia on the spot.

If there is no prompt response from Russia, Dulles said, "in a great many respects it will be quite apparent it is necessary to move ahead on all fronts, East and West, to develop a strong position."

The Eisenhower plan—end the cold war, disarm the world and invest the savings in combatting want—was handed directly to the Kremlin.

The State Department said a text of the speech was submitted to the Soviet Foreign Office in Moscow Thursday night. American envoys in some 70 foreign capitals acted similarly.

Symington told the editors' society Friday that, even if the defense budget is not reduced, the U. S. will continue to grow "weaker every day in relative military strength against Russia."

He said he hopes the Eisenhower administration does not invite possible military disaster by adopting a "price-tag policy" on arms spending.

"SOMEDAY, and now by no means in the distant future," Symington said, "the Russians will have that number of bombs they consider enough. They already have the

Columbus Rent Decontrol Snags

WASHINGTON (AP)—Efforts to speed decontrol of rents in Columbus, O., have run into a snag.

John McElroy, administrative assistant to Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), Friday said the city charter evidently requires a 30-day waiting period before City Council resolutions can become effective.

The Columbus City Council Monday voted to remove rent curbs from housing in that city.

McElroy said Robert Lauer, general counsel of the Office of Rent Stabilization told him the 30-day waiting period stipulated in city laws prevents the federal agency from acting quickly.

Smallpox Epidemic Plagues England

The outbreak is centered in the textile manufacturing areas of Yorkshire and Lancashire. Cases have been officially reported in at least six towns. The outbreak has set off a rush to vaccination centers across the north of England.

Soviet Pushes Her Plan For East Germany

At Same Time, Reds 'Plead' For Unified Setup For Nation

BONN, Germany (U)—Western Allied officials say that despite the new Soviet campaign for a four-power conference to reunify Germany, the Russians are pushing as hard as ever for a fully bolshevized East Germany with its own powerful Red army.

The top East German Communist, Deputy Premier and Party Secretary General Walter Ulbricht, made big headlines in the Red press yesterday with his statement that Moscow wants to talk reunification with the United States, France and Britain.

Allied officials said today, however, that there is not the slightest sign in East Germany that the Russians expect an early agreement with the West on Germany or intend to relax their grip on the 18 million East Germans.

They said the Russians are acting as if long-range Soviet policy in Germany is unchanged—to nail down a Communist satellite regime in East Germany and thus keep Soviet power entrenched in Europe as far west as the Elbe River.

The state-directed rural revolution, the purging of anti-Communists from political and cultural groups, the terror campaign against the church, the expansion of the Communist "people's army"—all these are moving ahead in East Germany, these officials said.

And the Kremlin's propaganda organization still is pouring out "hate the West" broadcasts and newspaper stories to the East German population.

Officials manning the West's front-line diplomatic posts here said they have been watching closely for signs that the Russians are easing their rough policy in East Germany.

But the latest reports on conditions there, they continued, show that:

Military construction for both the Soviet occupation forces and the new East German army is being rushed. The young East German Communist army now exceeds 100,000 men and is growing. The Russians are reliably reported planning to enlarge this force to around 300,000 men.

Large and small farms are being herded into "production co-op operatives," another name for the Soviet-type collective farm.

In the war against the church, the Communist government is reported planning to outlaw Protestant youth activities and to seize church welfare and cultural properties not being used for religious services.

Thomas Jefferson Grows in Esteem As Years Add Meaning to His Ideas

By H. D. CRAWFORD
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Thomas Jefferson was born on April 13, 1743. Every year hundreds of thousands of people who visit Washington's famous cherry blossoms along the Tidal Basin in early April see in the midst of these magnificent blossoms the white marble, Pantheon-like Jefferson Memorial commemorating the man who wrote the Declaration of Independence, who was our first secretary of state, and who, as third President, was the first to be inaugurated at Washington.

Every year the impact of Jefferson's ideas becomes more evident as we recognize them as pillars of our American system. This year the birth anniversary of the great statesman has special significance. He was born 210 years ago.

Just 150 years ago this April, President Jefferson's representatives in Paris purchased the Louisiana Territory. On Jefferson's 200th birthday, 10 years ago, President Franklin D. Roosevelt turned from the arduous affairs of World War II long enough to go to the Tidal Basin and dedicate the Jefferson Memorial.

WHEN PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT spoke of Jefferson a decade ago, America and its allies were fighting the tyranny of the German-Italian-Japanese Axis; today the free world is confronted by the tyranny of a Russian-sponsored Communist plot of world conquest. Roosevelt's words regarding Jefferson are as applicable today:

"Thomas Jefferson believed, as we believe, in man. He believed, as we believe, that men are capable of their own government, and that no king, no tyrant, no dictator can govern for them as wisely as they can govern for themselves."

President Roosevelt ended his dedicatory address by quoting words from Jefferson which he said "speak Jefferson's noblest and most urgent meaning," and he said he was proud to understand and share them: "I have sworn upon the altar of God eternal hostility against every form of tyranny over the mind of man."

THE JEFFERSON MEMORIAL

is fashioned architecturally after the Pantheon in Rome. Jefferson admired this design. He worked it into the dome he designed for the University of Virginia. He also used it in the design of his own some of Jefferson's ideas. Carved into the marble panels of the Memorial you find these words:

"No man shall be compelled to frequent or support any religious worship or ministry or shall otherwise suffer on account of his religious opinions or belief. But all men shall be free to profess, and by argument to maintain, their opinions in matters of religion...."

"I am not an advocate for frequent changes in laws and constitutions. But laws and institutions must go hand in hand with the progress of the human mind. As that becomes more developed, more enlightened, as new discoveries are made, new truths discovered and manners and opinions change, with the change of circumstances, institutions must advance also to keep pace with the times. We might as well require a man to wear still the coat which fitted him when a boy as civilized society to remain ever under the regimen of their barbarous ancestors."

THE HEROIC 19-foot bronze statue of Jefferson stands peacefully on its pedestal in the center of the memorial, facing across the Tidal Basin toward the White House. From the memorial's front entrance you can see the Lincoln National Capitol.

The white marble memorial, with its great fluted columns, nestles along the Tidal Basin flanked with flowering cherry trees. It is one of the most elegant and inspiring structures in Washington.

Alienists Tell Of Confused Mental States

Ruff on the night of the slaying suffered an attack of epilepsy which took the form of "epileptic automatism"—an attack causing her to wander in a confused mental state for a period of undetermined duration.

During such an attack, the specialist explained, Mrs. Ruff would have been able to drive a car, turn lights on and off, answer questions and perform many other acts with little or no realization of what she was doing.

Persons in such a state, Harding said, act in a manner somewhat similar to those walking in their sleep.

"They are not unconscious," he said, "but neither are they conscious."

In a variation of epileptic attacks with motion, the specialist added, the person may become "violent and destructive."

Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer, on cross-examination, questioned the doctor closely as to his procedure in making his examination and the basis found for his conclusions.

Both alienists called by the defense made reference to use of a tracing obtained from "brain wave" laboratory equipment. Such equipment, by measuring electrical impulses given off by the human brain, is widely used to detect epilepsy and other afflictions of like classification.

In a technical discussion of his "brain wave" findings with the Prosecutor, Harding gave the impression that tests given Mrs. Ruff clearly indicated a disorder involving the brain but could not show conclusively the basic reason for her condition.

That, he agreed with Ammer, could only be determined by more extensive examination and further tests.

HARDING ALSO agreed that if "vital facts" were given to one examining alienist and withheld from another, the doctors would likely disagree in their diagnosis.

A lengthy discussion centered on whether Dr. J. A. Whieldon, one of the two court-appointed alienists who testified earlier, had been given the same information as Harding received on Mrs. Ruff's case.

Harding pointed out it is possible the defendant felt more at ease during his own examination, stressing at the same time he had no way of knowing fully the circumstances under which Whieldon conducted his own study of the accused woman's condition.

Harding, later in his testimony, said he understood Whieldon used a tape recorder while examining Mrs. Ruff in Columbus. The defense alienist expressed belief this could make Mrs. Ruff "uncomfortable" through the period of examination.

In reply to a question by Ammer, Harding indicated he is not willing to state that Mrs. Ruff is always a victim of the same type of epileptic spells. He said persons often have more than one type of epilepsy and recalled that, a few days prior to the shooting, Mrs. Ruff had an attack that apparently was one of brief duration and virtually no movement.

His point was that this did not mean her attacks would necessarily always be of this sort.

Harding replied in the affirmative when Ammer asked him if a person suffering a "psychomotor" attack (being able to move around) could "shoot a person."

"And such persons are dangerous to society, are they not?" asked Ammer.

"Well, they certainly are at the time," Harding replied.

IN A DISCUSSION over whether or not epilepsy can be cured, Harding stressed the point that the question in any individual case can hardly be determined without thorough examination and study of the apparent cause.

Like the defense alienist who preceded him to the stand, Harding said Mrs. Ruff told him she didn't know whether she had shot her husband. Harding, however, also quoted the defendant as adding: "They tell me I had a gun."

The state objected strenuously when Defense Attorney Paul Gingham, on re-direct examination, asked Harding if he believed Mrs. Ruff talked truthfully to him at the time of his examination.

Harding was later permitted to answer, however, and said: "It was my opinion she was telling the truth." He explained all his impressions at the time were along the line of that conclusion—that he had no reason to doubt the defendant.

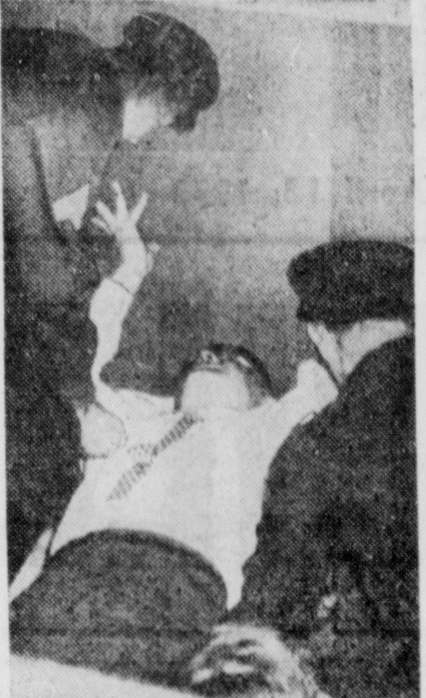

Asked if the "treatment Mrs. Ruff received at the hands of her husband" was an important detail in his diagnosis, the specialist replied "it was part of it, but not the important part."

Questioning then turned to "sleeping pills" Mrs. Ruff told of taking the night or early morning of the shooting.

IN THIS CONNECTION, Harding said certain drugs often used for this purpose have a tendency to reduce impending epileptic attacks. However, he pointed out that if insufficient drugs were used at the time, the effect would be only to modify the type of attack—possibly eliminating convulsions or falls but leaving the victim in a dazed condition that could last for an indefinite time.

Harding, under re-cross examination by Ammer, expressed belief that Dr. Dwight Palmer, court-appointed alienist, had reached erroneous conclusions in reference to Mrs. Ruff's case. However, Harding emphasized again that he "has no way of knowing whether Dr. Palmer and Dr. Whieldon were able to obtain all the facts."

Ammer, shortly before the weekend recess was called at 4:13 p. m. Friday, asked Harding if he would be willing to compare his findings with those of the court-appointed alienists. Harding said he would be willing to do so.

Like the defense alienist who preceded him to the stand, Harding said Mrs. Ruff told him she didn't know whether she had shot her husband. Harding, however, also quoted the defendant as adding: "They tell me I had a gun."

The state objected strenuously when Defense Attorney Paul Gingham, on re-direct examination, asked Harding if he believed Mrs. Ruff talked truthfully to him at the time of his examination.

Harding was later permitted to answer, however, and said: "It was my opinion she was telling the truth." He explained all his impressions at the time were along the line of that conclusion—that he had no reason to doubt the defendant.

Asked if the "treatment Mrs. Ruff received at the hands of her husband" was an important detail in his diagnosis, the specialist replied "it was part of it, but not the important part."

Marines Used In Atom Test

GIs In Trenches, 'Copters For Trial

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (U)—Twenty-two hundred Marines crouched in trenches today witnessed the most spectacular atomic blast of the spring series—a shot that flashed blinding white then turned a beautiful rosy orange during an unusually long-lingering after glow.

The pre-dawn detonation, first to involve Marines maneuvering in helicopters, was set off from a 300-foot tower.

After the explosion the ground troops, from Camp Pendleton, Calif., and Camp Lejeune, N. C., scrambled up and advanced in a tactical exercise toward a mock enemy. Their trenches were 4,000 yards from ground zero.

Leap-frogging over them came 200 more Marines in 40 transport helicopters applying vertical envelopment tactics, similar to those carried out in World War II by gliders and paratroops.

SIX MARINES and six soldiers rode out the blast in trenches well in advance of the main body of troops. Authorities would not disclose their distance from the blast.

Nine volunteers were stationed 2,500 yards from ground zero in previous test.

The exercise commander, Brig. Gen. William C. Bullock, said there were no casualties.

The brilliant flash was seen in Los Angeles, 250 miles away, as an orange-yellow glow illuminating the entire sky.

The dirty white cloud that shot skyward after the shot bore down on this resort community, 75 miles from the Atomic Energy Commission's Yucca Flat proving ground, at a fast clip.

But as it neared the city the wind veered and it appeared the cloud would pass well to the north.

Less than a minute after the flash a fast-rising gray cloud became visible from here. In two of the earlier shots this year no cloud was seen from here.

However, observers felt no shock wave here and heard no sound. This has been the case in several of the shots this spring, even when flashes have been bright.

Young Mother Slays 2 Tots

EAST LANSING, Mich. (U)—A pretty young mother who admitted killing her two small daughters Friday "because I'm so mean" remained in fair condition today in an East Lansing hospital from wounds suffered in an unsuccessful suicide attempt.

Police said Mrs. Helen Strieter, the 25-year-old wife of a Michigan State College graduate student, admitted killing her daughters, Sandra, 4, and Rhonda, 2½, in the small campus barracks apartment which the family occupied.

But Ferguson said he is convinced the $46½ billion military program proposed by former President Truman can be heavily slashed without reducing combat strength.

The Michigan senator said he believes secrecy surrounding the atomic program—for which Truman asked $2.7 billion in the fiscal year beginning July 1—has led to "great extravagance."

Ferguson said a $4 billion military cut, as proposed by Senate Republican Leader Taft of Ohio, will not be enough.

Taft predicted that Congress will cut military spending substantially. He said he agrees with the statement of John A. Hannah, assistant secretary of defense, that substantial cuts can be made "with out sacrificing strength."

Consecration Is Theme For Christ Church

"Consecration" will be the theme for study Sunday morning during worship in church of Christ, meeting at 159 E. Main St.

"Consecration means to 'separate' or to 'set apart' from a common to a sacred use," points out Evangelist Charles Cochran.

"In becoming a child of God one must be willing to separate himself from a number of things that would hinder him from serving in this holy profession. This act of separation on the one hand, and a dedicating to a new life of service to the Lord on the other is called 'consecration.'"

"A person is separated from the 'ignorance of sin' by hearing the gospel of Christ. No longer can one plead ignorance of his duty after once having learned the truth. One is separated from the 'love of sin' by faith in Christ (Heb. 11:6). Thus his affections are changed from a love of evil to a love and trust of good. After having believed on Christ as God's son, one is separated from the 'practice of sin' by repentance or a turning away from sin."

"In repentance he ceases to live a life of sin and dedicates himself to a life of righteous living (Luke 13:3). Even though the person may have learned the truth, professed faith in Christ, and turned away from the practice, he is still not a new creature, nor is he freed from the 'guilt' of his sins. A person is freed from the 'guilt of sin' by being baptized for the remission of sins (Mk 16:15-16; Acts 2:38). And finally, after becoming a new creature in Christ, one must consecrate himself wholly and unreservedly by living a life of worship and service to the Lord (Col. 3:1-25)."

Bible Words To Live By

My favorite verse is from a Psalm:

Psalm 16:6, "The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage."

Daily incidents are continually reminding me of the goodness of God. I cannot eat a meal, look at our automatic washing machine or see the prosperity of the members of my congregation without being reminded of these words of David.

It is sweet to enjoy the material comforts and to pause to consider the pleasant places into which we have come. We need to remember how our forefathers have toiled to make possible our "goodly heritage," and how much of our heritage we owe to other peoples and times.

Because of their setting these words remind me that true goodness is not all material, that the "goods" of life are not just in labor-saving devices, plenty of food, clothing and comforts. With David

'God's Grace' Theme Readied For Lutherans

This Sunday, in both Trinity and Christ Lutheran churches, the Rev. George L. Troutman will conduct worship services on "God's Grace, the Cure for Fretfulness," based on the first verse of the 37th Psalm as follows: "Fret not thyself because of evildoers, neither be thou envious against the workers of iniquity."

The Rev. Mr. Troutman says: "Certainly as one looks about he sees that the unbeliever, the non-Christian, often is very prosperous, has much of this world's goods, is frequently honored with high positions, and life to him seems to be most good; yet we as Christians are not to look merely at these outward blessings and material signs of well being.

"Even in times of physical distress the Christian is reminded of God's Word, 'My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness.' As to the necessities of life the man who loves God need not fret for he has this promise of God, 'Seek first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things shall be yours as well'. And as to advancement the grace of God again supplies the Christians lack, 'I can do all things in him who strengthens me'.

"Certainly of all people the Christian need never complain or be fretful if he has let the grace of God work in him as Paul did when he said, 'Not that I complain of want; for I have learned, in whatever state I am, to be content'. May each one of you experience God's grace as fully."

The junior choir and the children's choir will join in singing an anthem, "O Savior Sweet." The junior choir will lead the congregational singing, accompanied by Mrs. Karl Herrmann at the organ.

Christian Growth To Be Theme In Calvary Church

"Christian Growth" is the theme for worship service Sunday in Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church.

As the topic of his morning sermon, the Rev. James A. Herbst has chosen the theme "Increasing Our Spiritual Stature." The message will be based upon the direction of the writer of 2nd Peter 3:18 when he directed the Christians in the various churches throughout Asia, "But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

The Pastor will seek to point out that even as in life those persons who are admired as graceful, gracious, and having other desirable traits must develop and cultivate these over a period of time, so must Christians who seek to be Christlike in their characters and lives, likewise engage in these spiritual disciplines which will bring about the development of such spiritual traits or graces.

The Pastor will be assisted by the assistant Sunday School Superintendent, Clark Zwyer and Pianist Miss Minnie Wilkerson. The youth choir, directed by Mrs. J. A. Herbst and accompanied by Mrs. Richard Crawford, will sing an anthem entitled, "Sweet Peace, the Gift of God's Love."

Following the service of worship, the congregation will dismiss to classes to study a lesson "Paul Becomes A Missionary." Throughout the morning, the children's department, which includes all of the children under the ages of 12, will engage in their own class lesson study, followed by their hour of worship together.

Great Shipwreck Theme Planned For Methodists

"The Great Shipwreck" will be the sermon theme of the Rev. Robert Weaver during worship service Sunday in First Methodist church.

Using an old text "Saul took a sword, and fell upon it," the theme of the sermon will follow the truth that a man is his best friend or his worst enemy. Only with the help of God can a man be lifted above himself into true sonship with the heavenly father.

Mrs. Ervin Leist has chosen "Meditation," "Evening Idyl" and "See the Conquering Hero Come" for her organ selections for the service.

Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh will lead the senior choir in an anthem, "Soft Were the Hands of Jesus." A class of members will be received at the close of the morning worship service.

The Junior High Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet at 6 p. m. with a group from the Fellowship participating in the worship part of the service. An important item of business will be the selection of some major activity of service for the church as a whole. The Rev. Mr. Weaver will direct a recreation program of folk games at the close of the worship.

Senior High Methodist Fellowship will have the second of a series of programs on vocations. Beverly Southward and Walter Heine will direct the worship service.

Reaching Out From Antioch

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Acts 11:19-26; 13-14.

After Stephen's death Christians were cruelly persecuted, and some traveled as far as Antioch and preached Christ there. When word of this came to Jerusalem, they sent Barnabas to Antioch on the first missionary journey.

Barnabas brought Paul to Antioch; then they were directed to go to Cyprus. A sorcerer named Bar-jesus, tried to prevent a deputy, Sergius Paulus, from hearing the word of God. Paul rebuked Bar-jesus severely, and he was blinded.

Coming to Lystra where they preached, a man crippled since birth listened to Paul. Paul saw he had faith to be healed, so he called to him in a loud voice, "Stand upright upon thy feet," and the man leaped and walked.

Sailing back to Antioch they gathered the church members together and told them all that God had done with them, and how He had "opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles."

*IMPROVING FORECASTS

THE RECENT 121ST meeting of the American Meteorological Society provided an opportunity for appraising progress in forecasting weather and in applying knowledge of climate to agriculture and other economic activities. The many subjects on the agenda demonstrated that Mark Twain was wrong. Many people are trying to do something about the weather.

They're trying, for example, to reduce it to mathematical formulae, so that electronic machines can make the many calculations involved in a forecast, and make them faster and more accurately than the human brain.

This endeavor encounters skepticism among what are called synoptic meteorologists, who defend the "classical approach." They insist the computer's range is too narrow and cannot evaluate alternative possibilities which the human forecaster takes into account.

However, Dr. Jule Chaney of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, which constructed a high-speed weather computer, asserted that "if a synoptic meteorologist can describe what he does mathematically in making a forecast, an electric computer can do it." Time will decide the winner of this professional dispute.

There was some discussion about long-range forecasting. Dr. Harry Wexler of the United States Weather Bureau anticipated the obvious jibe. "Some people wonder," he said, "why we attempt long-range forecasting when we haven't even perfected the short range." But, he insisted, the effort to reduce the physics of the air to statistical knowledge is going forward and good results are being obtained.

Even the layman can appreciate the value of dependable long-range forecasting. Enterprises dependent on the weather now involve gambling with large sums, a hazard that could be lessened by accurate knowledge far in advance. It would be useful not only to agriculture, but to building construction and highway maintenance.

What the meeting disclosed chiefly is that scientific effort on a high level is being devoted to weather forecasting. Much remains to be done but, considering the variable elements with which meteorologists work, it is surprising that bloopers are as rare as they are.

Of ultimate success in reducing this branch of physics to mathematical precision there can be little doubt.

Only astrologers and religious cranks formerly attempted to predict the day on which the world will end. With the coming of the H-bomb, nearly anybody can do it.

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

Unless the fighting in Korea is a war, it cannot end in a peace. That is undoubtedly the difficulty that the various statesmen face. Also, if the two principals in all this are not the United States and Soviet Russia, who are they? If North Korea is one of the principals, why is not South Korea the other?

Like so much else that has been happening in our world since 1938, nothing ever comes out mathematically. For instance, the European War started in 1939, because Germany, assisted by Russia, violated the territorial sovereignty of Poland, and a few treaties as well. When the war was ostensibly over, Soviet Russia owned Poland, which had practically ceased to be a sovereign country. At Potsdam, it was agreed that a number of countries that had been "liberated" from the Germans were to establish governments of their own choice by "democratic means." This has not happened.

Instead, these countries were conquered, as though by war, by Russia. Yet, the Russians are members of the United Nations as a "peace-loving country," while Spain and Ireland, which conquered no peoples, are excluded from the United Nations. Nationalist China, the recognized government of that country since 1927, fought Japan since 1931, our ally since 1941, has been driven off the Asiatic continent through the errors of judgment and methods of General George Marshall and has been forced to take refuge on the island of Formosa; yet Marshall is extolled and honored by being appointed to represent our nation at the coronation of Queen Elizabeth. But General MacArthur, who heroically fought in the field in Asia, lives in retirement, selling electric razors and typewriters.

This topsy-turvyism finds Georgi Malenkov proposing a peace, designed not to establish universal peace, or even the co-existence about which the Russians speak so freely, as though it were a respite for us from death, but rather to separate us from our allies and to isolate the United States from all the countries we have been aiding to the amount of about $100 billion of the earnings of the American people. And some of our allies would prefer to be separated because they want trade, not aid, and believe that the trade of Russia and China is worth more than the friendship of the United States, which twice went to their rescue with blood and treasure.

S. Bernard, member of the Institut Emile Vandervelde of Brussels, Belgium, a Socialist, writing in "World Politics," makes this notable point:

"Having created the United Nations in the image of their moral and legalistic conception of international society, the Western powers proceeded to make particularly dangerous use of it; they protested systematically—and for reasons of pure principle—against the integration of the Eastern European countries into the Soviet bloc. This extension of the Soviet zone of influence was, after all, the logical consequence of Russia's victory over Germany. By agreeing to this development in advance at Yalta, the Western powers accepted an historical calamity.

"Once Germany had been defeated and disarmed, Russia became naturally the leading power in that part of Europe. It would have required a war to prevent the USSR from reaping this gain, as it would

DIET AND HEALTH

When Symptoms May Lie

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D. PAIN is often transmitted from one part of the body to another, known to the medical profession as referred pain.

For example, pain of the appendix may first occur around the navel, although the appendix is not in this location. Pain in the knee is often from the hip, and pain in the ear is often due to tongue disorders.

Intestinal Difficulties Difficulties with the large intestine may produce pain in the chest, left shoulder, neck and arm. Usually, these attacks begin with some emotional disturbance and are relieved when gas or feces is expelled through the rectum. The disturbance has to be in the left side of the large intestine as it makes its way across the abdomen.

Notably, persons suffering from spastic or mucous colitis, as it is known, complain of such symptoms. Attacks of chest pain and pain down the arm have been proven to occur in this manner by research physicians who have inserted a balloon on a tube up into the portion of the large intestine known as the splenic flexure. The balloon is then inflated and the patients all seem to get the symptoms of chest pain. The pain is very often similar to angina pectoris, which is one of the precursors of heart disease.

Wrong Diagnosis Some persons are needlessly worried that they have heart disease, when actually their symptoms are due to the fact that colon disease is diagnosed as heart disease.

Persons suffering from this disorder may be helped with a bland diet in which all spices, condiments, raw fruits and vegetables and other irritating foods are removed. The use of various antispasmodic drugs are also of help in certain cases, but they should be taken upon the advice of a doctor.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

E. B.: Several weeks ago I had an attack of shingles. The pain over the area where I had the shingles has persisted. What would you advise?

Answer: Shingles, or herpes zoster, is due to a virus infection of the skin nerves and produces small blisters over the area affected. Usually, most of these cases do clear up spontaneously. However, pain may last a few weeks or months after the attack. In a few cases, local nerve blocks may relieve the pain.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN ELLERTON was still staring at me, breathing hard. "I said you got a big mouth," he said. "I don't like big mouths. I don't like big-mouthed punks who cause trouble. Now take some advice; get in our way and you'll think you're in front of a steamroller. Now clear out. And don't think you aren't lucky to be walking out of here."

"Gee, thanks, Mr. Ellerton." "Seat it."

I walked across to the door, aware of the drumming silence behind me, and the eyes probing into my back. At the door I turned and looked back at them. "By the way, do you know a guy named Tommy Weissman?" I said. "I understand he used to hang out in these parts."

"Yeah, I knew Tommy," Ellerton said in a slow puzzled voice. "He was a good boy. I hear he got shot up by some private cop in Philly last month."

"That's right," I said. "He wasn't really so good after all. He thought he was though, I'll give him that." Suddenly I realized how childish I was being. I was a stupid bragging ass. Why couldn't I keep my big mouth shut?

"You were the guy, eh, the private cop?" Ellerton said slowly. "It was too late to deny it. That's right," I said pleasantly. I felt a little better at the expressions that came onto their faces. What's the point of taking jerks like Tommy Weissman if you can't brag about it occasionally? Especially to their old friends and fellow hoodlums.

They didn't say anything, but simply looked me over with eyes that had become thoughtful and businesslike. I waved to them and walked out.

Downstairs I caught a cab and went back to the Star. I found a bar across the street from it and had a few drinks. Everything was breaking beautifully. I thought. After all, I was still alive and that item belonged on the credit side of the ledger. I wrote a note on a paper napkin, a short but eloquent note, to the red-headed dice girl at the Star, and gave a waiter two bucks to deliver it. He came back a few minutes later, nodded at me, winked significantly and made a circle with his thumb and forefinger.

I gathered I was in. The red-head came in around two in the morning, a happy smile on her doll-like face, and wearing a beautifully cut black linen suit and black ankle-strap sandals. The few men who were sitting tiredly at the bar brightened as she sauntered toward me, and their heads pivoted in unison to follow her free-wheeling hips and the flash of her slim, delightfully tanned legs.

I stood as she slid into the booth. "Hi," she said, still wearing her happy babyish smile. "You never came back to finish your game."

The men at the bar went back to their drinks, probably wondering what I had that they didn't. "I'm glad you missed me," I said. I ordered drinks and lit her cigarette. "What's your name?"

"Margo."

"How are you, Margo? My name is Bill, Bill Canall."

The red-head looked demure. "I wouldn't know, I'm sure," she said. "We don't discuss the boss, eh?"

news behind the news

Editor's Note—Every Saturday this veteran Washington correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON, April 18—"Don't you think it impertinent," asks F. G. of Buffalo, N. Y., "for the Senate Armed Services Committee to suggest that General Van Fleet become its official adviser? It hardly seems fair or judicious for them to rely on a man who has been so critical of his former colleagues in the Pentagon."

Answer: On the contrary, I think it an excellent idea, and I base my reply on long observation of the system of liaison between congressional committees and the defense units over which they are supposed to have jurisdiction. There might have been no ammunition shortage problem, if the Senate and House committees had been better informed by such an expert as Van Fleet.

In the past, when the House and Senate committees dealing with defense problems asked the Army, Navy or Air brass for an adviser, they were given a colonel, a major or a captain. Frequently, these officers were not too expert or experienced in their respective fields. Because of their low rank, they dared not take exception to reports prepared for Congress by superior officers. They became mere messenger boys between Capitol Hill and the Pentagon.

VALUABLE—A man like Van Fleet, with his intimate knowledge of conditions and personal acquaintanceship with high-ranking fellow officers, could be of invaluable help to the legislators. They would learn of difficulties like the ammunition crisis before, instead of after the fact. The "big brass" have enjoyed for too long a sort of sacrosanct and untouchable position. It is time, as Senator Byrd notes, that they showed a more responsive and responsible attitude toward the American people, whose sons' lives they have in keeping.

GHOST TOWNS—"Don't you

By Ray Tucker

think," writes G. R. R. of Santa Ana, Calif., "that John L. Lewis is directly responsible for the heavy imports of foreign residual oil, as are Reuther, Hillman, Murray and other labor leaders for the importation of cheaper but not necessarily inferior foreign products? Aren't our 'ghost towns' caused by their demands for round after round of wage increases, which were sanctioned and supported by the New Deal?"

Answer: G. R. R. refers to a recent column reporting labor leaders' protests against imports of residual oil from Venezuela, which displaces use of coal. He is entirely correct, of course, in suggesting that high domestic prices, based partly on high wages and shorter productive hours, have stimulated low-cost imports and may kill our foreign markets for exports.

It is true, too, that New Deal Fair Deal policies aggravated this trend. But two world wars, together with our insistence on higher living standards, are basically responsible for our present level of prices and the inflow of lower-priced products.

American knowhow and increased productivity may eventually cut costs, therefore retail prices, as a bulwark against foreign goods. But such a transition period, in view of current trends, will be long and difficult. Ike has promised no wage reductions or shorter hours.

"DARLING"—"In answer to Mrs. M. F. of Johnstown, Pa.," writes R. H. B. of Uncasville, Conn., "you described Owen Lattimore as 'the darling of the Democratic Party.' I have been a Democrat for 40 years, and know its members well, including H. S. T. and Lattimore is definitely not our 'darling.'"

Answer: I concede that Lattimore has not been a ward, or district, or state, or national party worker. But he held many responsible posts here and abroad during and after the war. He was frequently consulted by the State Department. If there is any such thing as party responsibility, Lattimore was in extremely high favor with Truman and Acheson and other Democratic bigwigs.

If that doesn't make him a "darling," politically speaking, I don't know what else he should be called.

Third Course In Flower Show School Planned

Garden Club of Ohio will present two widely acclaimed horticulturalists as speakers of the Flower Show School, Course III, to be held in Columbus April 28, 29 and 30. They are Mrs. Archibald Wilson Walker of Spartansburg, S. C., and Mrs. J. R. Otto of Little Rock, Ark. Both are experienced gardeners, popular speakers and both well known accredited flower show judges.

The school will be held in St. Paul's Parish House on East Broad St. and Garfield Rd. Mrs. W. C. Harrison of 95 South Parkview Ave., Columbus, will be in charge of reservations.

Mrs. Walker, who will conduct the school on April 28 has participated in judging schools in New York, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Georgia. She has attended horticultural schools and gardening clinics give by the agricultural departments of University of North Carolina, University of Georgia, Clemson college, and Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Mrs. Walker studied under H. Stuart Orthoff, widely known landscape architect and author and has done field work with a practicing landscape gardener. She recently completed a lecture tour of six states.

Mrs. Otto will conduct the school on April 29. She is a graduate of Michigan State college, where she took advanced work in floriculture. She was tri-color winner in 1951 Regional Gladiolus Show and sweepstakes winner the same year of the National Gladiolus Show. She served as guest arranger for Michigan Commercial Growers Association. At present she is president of Arkansas State Judges Council. She is affiliated with the National Rose Society, the Central States Dahlia Society and the Little Rock Horticultural Society.

On the first day of the flower show school the program will be devoted to lectures on flower show practices and horticulture. Class participation in judging houseplants, fruits and vegetables will be included.

On the second day there will be a lecture and demonstration of flower arrangement. Arrangements will be pointed scored by class.

A written examination will be held April 30 for those who wish to qualify as accredited judges of National Council.

The school is primarily held for the benefit of those wishing to become judges, but the public is invited.

Mrs. Emmett Barnhart, local chairman, says that all gardeners will find inspiration in the lectures. It is not necessary to have attended Courses I and II. Even arrangers who aspire to be judges may take the examination of Course III and pick up the other courses when they are offered in Cleveland. Any member of Garden Club of Ohio may take the examination. Any person interested in flower arrangement and horticulture is invited to attend the school.

Scholarship To Be Offered By Junior Woman's Club

Within a few days, judges in a scholarship contest, being sponsored for the first time this year by the Circleville Junior Woman's Club, will begin screening contestants for a scholarship in the nursing or teaching professions.

Because of the great need for nurses and elementary teachers, the club has specified that a girl, in order to be eligible for the award, must plan to continue her education in one of these fields.

A letter sent by the club scholarship committee, early in March, to each superintendent of schools in the county, invited the superintendent to submit a recommendation for one or two girls who would be members of the 1953 graduating class. The letter also stated that the scholarship in the amount of $300.00 would be divided and paid to the student over the three or four year period of her training. The club has also specified that any student who does not complete her course, will automatically be barred from receiving the unpaid amount of her award.

Judges in the contest will be the president of Junior Woman's Club, the contest chairman, and a grade school teacher not yet selected. County Superintendent George D. McDowell and City Superintendent of Schools, Frank Fischer have also been invited to assist with the judging.

In addition to the recommendation by the school head, each contestant is required to write a letter her hopes and plans for the future. Judging is to be based largely on scholarship, but the judges will also give special consideration to a girl who has been outstanding in student and community activities.

Before judging is completed around May 1, it is expected that the judges may ask to interview the contestants personally before making a selection. The winner will receive the award at the time of her graduation.

Class Meet Held In George Home

William Lake, vice-president, conducted the business meeting, after which a short program of readings by Mrs. John Straley and Mrs. Bessie Dunkle was given.

Mr. and Mrs. Lake invited the group to meet in their home on May 8 for a covered dish supper at 6:30 p. m.

Not All Wrestlers' Muscle Bound Above, Below Neck

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — Generally, when you think of wrestlers, you picture a hulking guy with a shaved head or a fancy hair-do, muscle-bound above and below the neck, and ready to commit mayhem on any and all opponents, and sometimes the customers.

If that's the picture you get, you should meet Joseph H. Scalzo.

Joe will prove to you that wrestlers can be scholars, gentlemen and otherwise normal human beings, in and out of the ring.

Scalzo is wrestling coach at Toledo University, and rated one of the best in the business. He's 32 years old, and was born in Newton, N. J., where he was voted "New Jersey's outstanding high school wrestler."

At Penn State he played football — halfback — and won the 145-pound NCAA wrestling championship. He was graduated from Penn State in 1941.

Incidentally, he was an all-A student as he earned his degree in chemical engineering. He carried that degree to Toledo and started working on war needed butadiene and other synthetics for an oil company.

Toledo wasn't an amateur wrestling town, but Joe started working to turn it into one. He became the YMCA mat mentor, an aide at the boys' club, a referee, an after-dinner speaker on wrestling, the coach of the Toledo University mat squad.

While holding his oil company job, and indulging in all the other aforementioned activities, he married and became the father of three. He also took over the directorship of the oil company's glee club and went through Toledo University's law school — another all-A performance in the classroom.

So now Joe is working as a chemical engineer during the day, coaches the Toledo U. grapplers late in the day, and operates as a patent attorney at night.

His Toledo U. wrestling squad was fourth-best in the country last year, and Joe went along to the Olympics as a mat judge and referee. He's also secretary of the American Wrestling Coaches Association, and vice chairman of both the National AAU and National AAU wrestling committees.

Despite all his chores, Joe found time a week or so ago to bring the National AAU wrestling tournament to Toledo, first time it's been held in the Midwest. He directed the meet, helped award medals, appeared on television shows, and judged bouts.

And on top of that he sponsored the first Greco-Roman wrestling tournament ever held in the United States. That's the only sport in which America failed to have an entrant in last year's Olympics — and Joe is determined to do something about it.

Greco-Roman wrestling is the ancient sport in which the gladiators are not permitted to grasp the foe below the waist. Russia won four of the eight Olympic bouts, which led Joe to observe: "What we can't understand is how Russia could win those matches, when you can't hit below the belt."

He's quite a guy, is Joseph H. Scalzo, and if you get up to Toledo way, you should look him up.

No Undefeated Teams Remain Among Majors

Milwaukee, Cleveland, Brooklyn Are Last To Leave Unbeaten List

By The Associated Press

From now on you can scratch off "undefeated" when you're talking about the 1953 major league baseball teams.

With only five days gone and a dozen games played in each league, every one of the 16 teams has lost at least once. The last three—Milwaukee, Cleveland and Brooklyn—bowed yesterday.

Almost every spring some club jumps out ahead with a steady string of victories through the first week or 10 days. This season's give-and-take, in which not only every team has lost but all save Washington has won at least once, came about in almost the minimum time.

The longest streak was two games, certainly nothing to excite the faithful, but at least for the Braves it equalled their best consecutive victory string in a season and a half.

The Braves, who would like to think they left their losing habits in Boston when they moved to Milwaukee, put up quite a fight to make it three in a row, but a desperation ninth inning rally in Cincinnati fell one run short.

The Redlegs edged them, 10-9, as young Joe Nuxhall got the side out with the tying run on second base. Cincinnati had broken a 7-7 deadlock in the eighth with the help of three walks from rookie Bob Buhl, who was making his first major league start.

A ninth inning rally that was successful enabled Detroit to end Cleveland's twosome streak, 6-5. The Dodgers bowed to the New York Giants, 6-3, in the afternoon half of a day-night twin bill at the Polo Grounds although they hustled back into the win column with a 12-4 decision under the lights.

In other action, the New York Yankees whipped Washington 7-3, with Mickey Mantle driving a 562-foot home run, one of the longest in baseball history; Philadelphia's Charlie Bishop shut out the Boston Red Sox, 5-0, on five hits; and the St. Louis Browns edged the Chicago White Sox in Chicago, 6-4, with the temperature only four degrees above freezing.

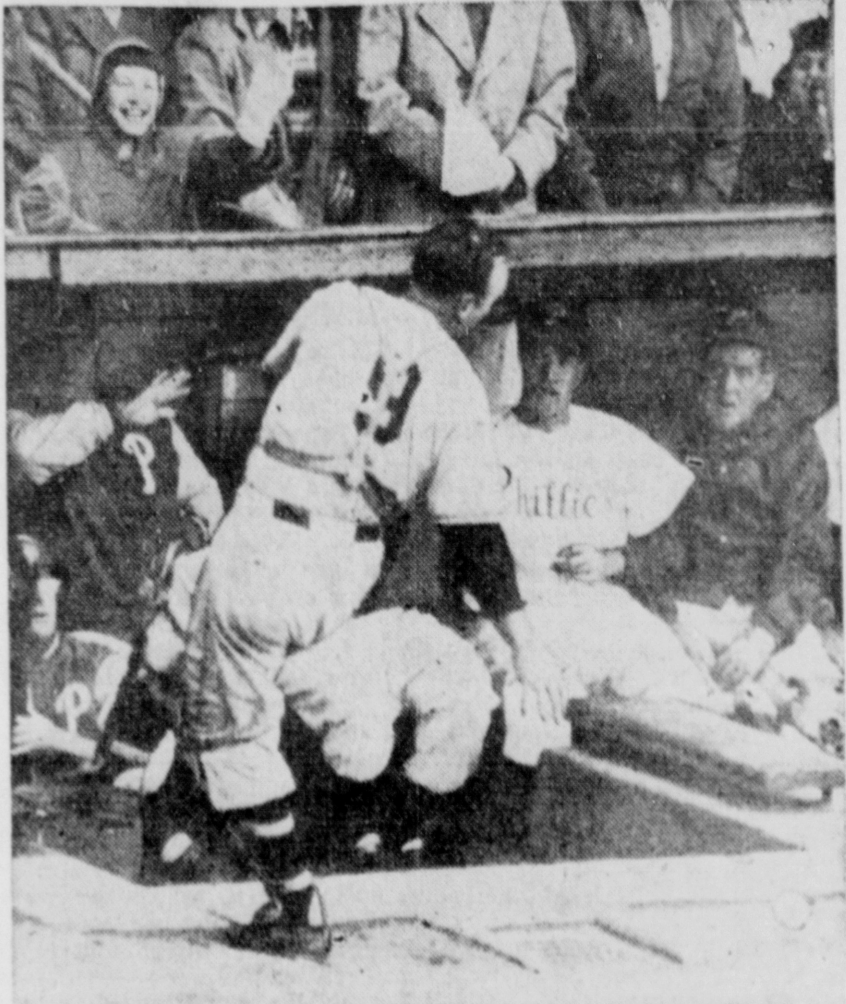

Since baseball statisticians rarely come equipped with tape measures, there are no complete official records on the longest home runs. Babe Ruth hit one at Detroit that traveled 600 feet, according to sworn affidavits.

Mantle, a switch hitter, was batting right handed against southpaw Chuck Dobbbs when he slammed into a fast ball at Griffith Stadium. The drive bounced off a beer sign 457 feet from home plate and landed in a back yard 105 feet behind the park.

The renewal of the Giants-Dodgers feud, in which the Giants prevailed a year ago, saw Sal Maglie go 6-2-3 hitless innings in the afternoon game before a wind blown fly ball by Jackie Robinson eluded Monte Irvin in the seventh. Maglie weakened almost immediately and had to have help from Hoyt Wilhelm, who finally quelled the Dodgers with the bases loaded in the ninth.

After getting nowhere for four innings against Jim Hearn in the night game the Dodgers exploded for six runs in the fifth and four more in the sixth to leave no doubts. Billy Loes, who started loafing when his mates got him a 12-0 lead, scattered nine hits for the victory.

The Athletics came up with a surprise when they started Bishop and the Red Sox remained sur-

Babe Comes Out Of Surgery OK

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP)—The sports finish of Babe Didrikson Zaharias may have been written entirely too soon.

The great woman athlete came through a serious operation "feeling fine" and the doctors who performed it think she may eventually return to golf where she became the finest player of them all.

The Babe was operated on Friday for a malignancy that had put her in a hospital eight days before. The operation was pronounced a success and one of her doctors made this observation:

"If things go as well as it looks, she could possibly take part in athletics again. But how soon is a little too early to say."

St. Paul, Toledo Suffer Losses

By The Associated Press

St. Paul and Toledo got their first knocks of the American Association season in a rain-shortened league program Friday night.

Louisville beat off St. Paul 6-3 on the strength of a four-run third inning and Columbus topped Toledo 6-0 as Gene Swinger, 23-year-old rookie, chalked up the shutout.

Rain and cold weather forced postponement of Minneapolis' game at Kansas City and Charleston at Indianapolis.

Principal speaker will be Forrest C. "Phog" Allen, varsity basketball coach of the University of Kansas Jayhawks. Allen's team won the NCAA championship and the Big Seven championship in the 1951-52 season, and "Phog" Allen was chosen "Basketball Coach of the Year" by the Helm's Foundation.

Allen will address Central Ohio high school and college coaches and osteopathic physicians and surgeons belonging to the Columbus Academy. His talk will deal with basketball techniques and the treatment and prevention of athletic injuries by the use of his methods of taping, bandaging and manipulation.

Tigers Chalk One-Run Win Over Indians

CHICAGO (AP)—The Cleveland Indians lost 6-5 in the last inning at Detroit Friday to drop a half game behind the New York Yankees.

The one-run setback before 2,642 chilly fans in Briggs Stadium was hard to take. The first loss of the season, it came after an error by shortstop Ray Boone allowed an unearned tying run.

Pinch hitter Johnny Pesky worked Bob Feller for a walk to lead off the last half of the ninth with Cleveland ahead 5-4. Pesky lit out for second on a hit-run and catcher Jim Hegan's throw beat him to the bag but Boone dropped it.

Catcher Matt Batts then boomed a triple to right to score Pesky and Lou Brissie replaced Feller. In the hope of cutting off the run at the plate, the next two batters were given intentional walks, but Owen Frieren loused up the strategy with a long fly that brought home the winning run.

Jim Deling, with homers in the second and sixth after Feller had walked Bob Nieman, accounted for the Tigers' other four runs.

Belated Power Of Redlegs Finally Shows

CINCINNATI (AP)—That power the Cincinnati Redlegs have been talking about all spring has exploded. It came at a good time, too, because the pitching sagged. The power paid off as the Redlegs won their first game of the National League season with a 10-9 triumph over the Milwaukee Braves. It also was Milwaukee's first defeat of the season.

The big sluggers for Cincinnati were Ted Kluszewski, Jim Green-grass and Gus Bell with home runs but the boy who put the crusher on the Braves was little Johnny Temple. His two-run single broke a 7-7 deadlock in the top of the eighth and then Bobby Adams drove in the run that eventually decided the game.

The Redlegs were out 12-10, but they whipped the Braves in home runs and those were the blows that counted most.

Eddie Mathews hit the only circuit blow for the Braves. Green-grass came with two on for Cincinnati and Bell followed with the other wallop out of the park.

Ted Williams' Discharge Hinted

BOSTON (AP)—A Philadelphia friend of ex-Red Sox star Ted Williams, now a Marine jet pilot in Korea, says the baseball slugger is suffering from an ear ailment that could mean his discharge from the service.

Bill Churchman, who flew with Williams in World War II and instructed him when Williams returned to active duty, said:

"Ted's ears clogged up in the fast descent when his plane was hit, took a nose dive and caught on fire in Korea and that his hearing has been impaired since."

In that smashup Williams survived a belly landing.

Akron Angler Reels In His 159th Bass Of The Season

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—In a fishing season not particularly noted for favorable weather, Howard Roeger of Akron is just about the best bass catcher in Ohio.

States were never in the European War at all. They do not even recall that the Americans could have taken Berlin and Prague but waited for the slower Russians to come up and to claim victory. They do not even note that the Americans could have held the whole of Berlin but that stupidity dictated a policy of letting the Russians take that pivotal city, giving us a zone with neither an entrance nor an exit. And so, naturally, it is a Russian victory, for what else can it be? And if we are not careful, it will be a Russian victory in Korea and His Marxisian Excellency, Chou En-lai, will sit in the United Nations on the East River in New York, joining Vishinsky in Stalinist obscenities against the United States. It could happen in the extraordinary confusions characteristic of the Acheson school of diplomacy, which still hangs over the State Department despite a Republican victory.

Dry-Feeding Young Pigs Seen Resulting In More Gains

Tests Reveal Early Weaning May Be Best

Baby Pigs On Dry Feed At 5 To 7 Days Gain Well

Baby pigs can be put on dry feed at from five to seven days of age—and make gains up to 37 per cent better than those left with the sow.

That conclusion, backed by feeding records and weights at six and eight weeks, was presented to the American Institute of Nutrition last week.

The experiments, which were conducted on an experimental farm involved feeding 227 pigs variations of seven different rations. Control pigs were sow-sucked in traditional fashion.

It was established at that time that piglets would learn to drink milk from a trough a day or two after birth. The new discovery—that the dry synthetic need not be converted into a liquid milk—is an outcome of efforts to overcome the tendency of baby pigs to get wet and chilled when given liquid synthetic milk in a trough.

AT MOST, in these experiments, the dry-fed pigs were given a moist "mush" for two days to wean them from the sow and onto the dry milk, or other ration.

Pigs started this way on dry milk solids combined with terramycin, vitamins, minerals, proteins, fat, and other ingredients, were compared with pigs started on liquid synthetic milk and others fed only on a pig starter high in terramycin and containing all the other essential ingredients.

Opinion of experimenters on the revolutionary technique of dry-feeding baby pigs is:

"The comparative growth responses obtained on dry and wet feeding (synthetic milk) indicate approximately equivalent results are obtained. In converting the pigs to dry feeding, a slop feeding period of two to three days is desirable in order to acclimate the animal to the transition to dry feeding."

"The management problems associated with wet feeding are greatly reduced, indicating dry feeding has distinct advantages."

Highest weight recorded was made by a lot of nine pigs which were given no liquid milk after being taken from the sows—was 26 pounds at six weeks and 49 pounds at eight weeks. Highest eight-week weight for liquid-fed pigs was 41 pounds. All pigs in the tests were given access to a good pig starter at all times.

Anna Wants To Be Free To Be Free

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"I love your skyscrapers—they are like stretching tentacles, pleading for the sky," said the world's highest paid actress.

Then Anna Magnani of Italy leaned back in bed and took a thoughtful puff on her cigar. So I leaned back, too—in a chair by the bed—and took a puff on the cigar she had given me.

It actually is called a cigarillo, a slender plastic-tipped cigar no larger than a king-size cigarette and popular with both men and women in parts of Europe. Anna likes them, but smokes only two or three a week.

"They are sent to me by my favorite admirer—my son, Luca," she explained. Luca, who is 11, is in school in Switzerland.

Anna, who recently completed an Italian film called "Bellissima," was so worn out by her first five days in America that when I called at her hotel suite she decided to be interviewed in bed.

She wore yellow pajamas trimmed in blue. She has a long midnight mane, framing a face of Roman gold, and as she leaned back against the pillow she looked like a tawny, well-fed lioness—violence in repose.

"First, I interview you," said Anna. "You like Italian women?"

"Yes."

"Do you like me?"

"Yes."

That ended her interview. So I took up the questioning.

"Do you like American men?"

"I would like to marry one and find out."

If she does, he'll be a lucky fellow.

low. Anna is reported to get $125,000 a picture, plus $1,000 a day overtime, and the Italian income tax is hardly even the nuisance that a sales tax is in this country. One American spaghetti manufacturer is said to have phoned her and asked what she would want to endorse his product. "Oh, about $50,000," said Anna, and the startled manufacturer murmured "wrong number," and hung up.

Anna is willing to make a film here, even at a financial sacrifice.

"It depends on the artist's freedom I would have," she said. "With me freedom is everything. I must be free."

A gleam came into her eyes which look like two BB pellets or spots of black caviar sunk in amber pools. She is as temperamental as Tallulah Bankhead.

"I like your New York," she said. "It has more personality than Paris. Rome lets herself be loved like a woman. But New York is fascinating, because it is so big and violent like some men."

"But it is so noisy. Two pigeons on the ledge woke me up this morning quarrelling. They were husband and wife. He was jealous. She must have betrayed him."

Anna, born in utter poverty, now lives in a five-room penthouse built on an old palace in Rome. She says she prefers small towns, because she has a fear of distance and bigness, but loves to stroll cities at night.

"At night a city is free to live for itself," she explained. "But in the daytime a city only works for the people in it."

As I started to leave, Anna exploded like a volcano. She leaped to her feet, bounded up and down on the bed, shook hands, pulled a hank of her black hair across her face to make a Hitlerian moustache, and broke out in laughter.

Twisting her luxuriant hair is one of her childlike mannerisms. I asked her why she did it.

"It keeps me company," she said. "Goodbye. They make me do too many things. Some time I would like to come back to this country when I could be free to be free."

Bug-Killers To Have More Power In '53

Insects Could Cause $5 Billion Damage To Growing Crops

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Harder-to-kill bugs are venturing forth about now to attempt damage that could run to around five billion dollars. They will find the American farmer and householder armed this year with a wider choice of specialized killers—including some friendly bugs.

Insecticide output is up seven-fold in five years. Some 350 million pounds of different kinds of it are available, including some new ones aimed at getting the flies and other pests who have become immune to some earlier types, like war-born DDT.

When the 17-year locust comes forth this summer, for example, he'll be met by tetraethyl pyrophosphate for the first time.

There are gadgets, too: Hollow-tooth combs to get at fleas and ticks on dogs; lamps that let off fumes that kill or repel insects; squeeze bottles that spray both insecticides and chlorophyll.

Farmers will have the benefit of around five million dollars worth of research on pesticides last year by private firms, exclusive of government agency spending.

Some of the specialized ones touted this year are:

A combined insect and disease protectant by du Pont both disinfects seed and kills insects in the soil bent on attacking the seed or plant.

Gardners are offered a new insecticide by American Cyanamid Co. that specializes on doing in aphids, mites, scales, mealy-bugs, leaf hoppers and thrips.

Farmers storing wheat, corn and other grain are offered pyreneone wheat protectant and pyreneone grain protectant by U. S. Industrial Chemicals Co. It aims at keeping grain free of insect damage while in storage—a loss that often runs into millions of dollars in a year.

pyrethrin combination by S. B. Penick & Co. that is claimed to be 12 times as toxic as pyrethrins alone. Flies that have learned to laugh at DDT will run up against a mixture of lindane and chlorinated polyphenyl which the U. S. Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine says has twice the lethal power of lindane alone.

High time, too, as the housefly traced radioactive ones for 20 miles.

Port Royal in Jamaica in the West Indies was destroyed by an earthquake in 1692.

Animals can live only by eating plants or other animals which live on plants.

61 Refugees Here

NEW YORK (AP)—Sixty-one refugees, mostly from Iron Curtain countries, arrived here by plane Friday from Germany. Most escaped from Communist-dominated lands before 1948.

Walkout Ends

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Workers in Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.'s seamless mill finishing department were back on the job today after a 24-hour strike. About 400 walked out over disciplinary action against two crane men.

Deckhand Dies In Electric Chair

MOONSVILLE, W. Va. (AP)—An Ohio River deckhand died in the electric chair here Friday night for the murder of a taxi owner.

Oshel Gardner Jr., 23, of Gallipolis Ferry, W. Va., prayed as he was fastened in the chair. Warden Orel J. Skeen said Gardner talked with two chaplains, although he previously had refused to do so.

Gardner was convicted Jan. 14 of the murder of Roy C. Jackson. He hailed Jackson's cab, robbed him, killed him, and then drove the cab to Huntington.
